Todd Kimmell, Mr. Defense, Jim Dennett, Mr. Offense, and Chris Noble, Mr. Touchdown: The QHS football royalty.

Mr. Lloyd Hill, borrowing Sharon Goodman's bass, dazzled the crowd with his stirring rendition of Moon River. He enco-red with a Stray Cats medley.

Melanie McPhee, Melanie Sullivan, Maureen Henwood, Michelle Forde, Lisa Connolly, Beth Weixler, and Amy Galman show their eternal QHS spirit.

Billy Van Dine, Joe DeAngelo, and Amy Baker. Joe teaches his comrades the lip exercises necessary for correct trumpet playing.

Mr. Uhler, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Venterelli, and Mr. Noble ponder the impending defeat they will face in the faculty/girls' volleyball game.

Kim Zupkofska may look a little anxious about the upcoming T-day game, but Sonya Gruchy, Jen Horrigan and Shiloh Thompson have typical Quincy confidence.

Stacey Free impresses many would-be cheerleaders at the eighth grade orientation. Although new cheerleaders may be able to imitate her moves, they can never copy her smile.

It Up!

Scott Grant's dogged determination was a major factor in Quincy's overwhelming routing of the Red Raiders.

Lisa Connelly and a friend cheer exuberantly for the home team, that is the wearers of the blue and white . . . as opposed to the red and black.

Early Years

September 6, 1985, marked our first day of high school, the first day of being freshmen at Quincy High. The most intimidating moment was when we were assigned to homerooms, not necessarily with our old friends. The next hurdle we had to overcome was finding our way to classes. We found it especially difficult to reach the Art wing, where many of us had classes.

As the years passed, we had to adjust to new experiences. We became more mature, getting used to more classes and more homework. The discipline at Quincy High was stronger than our Middle Schools, and some of us had to learn the hard way.

Quincy High wasn't just new to us in school work, it was different in social aspects as well. The small cliques found at Middle School were dissolved, and our groups grew larger by the minute. We found it easier to make friends, and this helped us have a more relaxed atmosphere.

Activities were plentiful at Quincy High, and there was something for everyone. Whether it was sports, clubs, or committees, we all found our place. If you didn't necessarily belong to something, you could still go to rallies, dances, and athletic events to socialize.

High school has been a growing experience for us. Now that we're seniors we can appreciate it all the more. College is our next obstacle, and we'll succeed there also.

Amy Guidice keeps an eye open for Mr. Edgar Tatro, who is acting very strange.

At one of the freshman-sophomore dances, Amy Kufert and Jason MacKay took orders from Sharon Goodman on where to put the streamers.

Last year Deanne DeSantis considered becoming a bridge designer, but changed her mind because it broke.

Ernie Deane checks his answer before he reads it out loud in chemistry class.

Roberta DiTullio, Dawn Hartnett, and Tanya Innello show the latest in fashions.

Junior Prom

Michelle Tardeu: Has she matured a bit, or is that just the shadow of her pen?

Probably the most exciting evening for the Juniors at Quincy High School is Prom Night. When we look back at our prom, we will have fond memories of our exhilarating evening.

There are many memorable moments of our evening at Braintree Sheraton Tara. Jennifer Laplume and Robin LaRaia will never forget being stuck on the highway due to limousine problems for almost five hours in fear of missing the prom. Karin Picarski and Rich Protasowicki were dates for the prom, but they spent most of the evening arguing. Lisa Melchione went to the prom with Hugh Crawford, which you would never guess by the way they avoided each other. Who was that girl linked to Dave Chu? It is rumored that she goes to North Quincy High.

Who was the first couple out on the dance floor? You guessed it! It was Sharon Goodman and date Dan Duffy, dancing the night away. In a nearby ballroom, Eric Marsters, Scott Kradolfer and Joe DeAngelo graced some post-retirement polka party animals with the pleasure of their company. During one of the many slow songs, Eileen Sullivan and boyfriend, Craig, were unexpectedly interrupted by his mother's camera flash. The slow songs may have been inappropriate for Tracey McDonough and Michele Fidler, who went with each other to the prom.

The most annoying people at the prom had to be Sean Gannon, David Nie and Mr. Charles Gliniewicz, who took pictures and live action film shots of every person. These pictures could be incriminating to many of the couples, who were caught doing some rather unmentionable acts.

Some even said the night began after the prom was over and the parties began. A widely attended one was at Kim Zupkofska's house, where the last guest didn't leave until the next day. Others who didn't attend went out for Chinese food or cruised to Boston in their limos.

All in all, the Junior Prom was a great success thanks to the prom committee and all those who attended! The Class of '89 will remember the Junior Prom "Always and Forever"!

Corrinne Fitchner, Todd Kimmell, and Scott O'Brien wait expectantly for the Prom feast. Bon Appetit!

Through the door comes the couple of the year. Just how long have Stacy Freel and Scott Logan been going out? Aren't they cute.

Beth Weixler looks a little embarrassed to be caught by the camera. Tim Acuff doesn't seem to notice, but we're sure he didn't mind.

Below: Chris Noble doesn't seem camera shy. In fact, we think he's quite used to being photographed. Deanne DeSantis looks as if she couldn't care less.

Peggy McMillen, Marybeth Keeley, Karin Picarski, and Dan Piccini relive John Travolta's immortal classic, Saturday Night Fever.

Dan Piccini and Marybeth Keeley: are they in a daze from the music, or something with a higher proof?

Sonya Gruchy and Pam Tivnan were hardly ever off their feet the entire evening. Boogie down, girls Eileen Sullivan and her spouse-to-be appear to be absorbed with each other's company. You can judge for yourself.

Rich Protasowicki and Jason MacKay were thrilled to find that they were the only ones who knew all the words to the Hokey- Pokey.

Genevieve Iorio had the grace of Ginger Rogers as she glided across the dance floor. Well, Fred would have been jealous.

Lisa Melchione looks like she is very anxious to get Greg Amante's attention, but she is probably just trying to avoid Mr.G's camera.

Scott Kradolfer, in perhaps his greatest role, changed many opinions about school prayer.

Beth Weixler and Deanne DeSantis make us wonder about the quality of the National Honor Society. Perhaps Macho Man would have been a better choice.

"I'm Singing In The Rain... Just Singing In The Rain"-- A Clockwork Orange

Relaxing at the milk bar are Stanley Kubrick's immortal Droogs, Jason MacKay, Bret Batson and Rodney Spear.

Sue Egan, Jen Horrigan, and Shiloh Thompson are just finishing their costume shopping. Notice the tag that is still on Sue's tie.

Jen Iorio looks much too amiable to be a convincing pirate.

Michelle Cashman, who could be Aphrodite in this toga, is accompanied by Roberta DiTullio as Tinkerbelle and Paul Shine as... well... Paul Shine.

Lauren McNamara surprised everyone when she accepted the scholarship to Rodeo Clown College in Wyoming. Best of luck in the future, Lauren!

Such a subtle change can make such a big difference! Here Lisa Sands models the latest in fashion feline headgear.

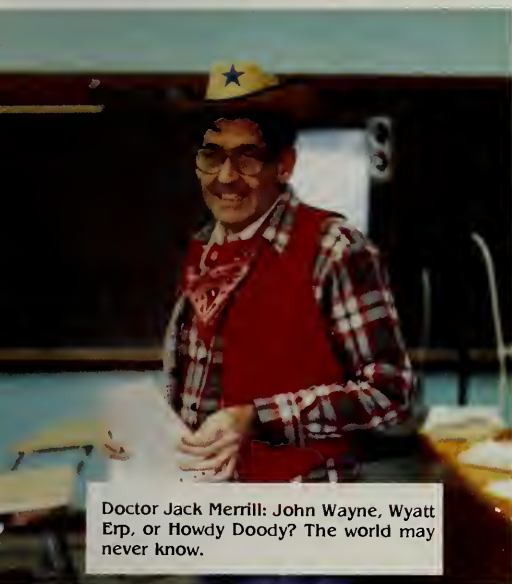

Halloween

This years Halloween Dress Up Day at Quincy High proved to be successful and fun with a few unexpected occurrences. Every year, students and teachers compete for the best costume award. The costumes are judged by a group of faculty. This years winners of the contest were 1st Place Deanne DeSantis and Beth Weixler, as Tweedle Dee and Tweedle Dum. Coming in second was Scott Kradolfer dressed up as Jesus. Lauren McNamara came in 3rd as a clown. Honorable mentions were the pirate Genevieve Iorio, the Macho Man Mr. Mosher, and Bret Batson, Jason MacKay and Rodney Spear, who broke away from tradition with their portrayal of the Droogs, the brutal characters from A Clockwork Orange.

Although it was a funfilled day there were a few mishaps. Jennifer Mullin, who dressed as a Christmas Tree, was sent home because the angel hair on her costume gave her a rash. Jessica Rutan was almost put down for a cut. Her English teacher Mr. Bruce McDonald did not recognize her.

All in all the day was full of fun and imagination.

Doctor Jack Merrill: John Wayne, Wyatt Erp, or Howdy Doody? The world may never know.

Jenn Mullin got her holidays mixed up, and Tanya Innello got her decades mixed up, but at least Shiloh Thompson was on target.

Okay...we know that Lisa Brangiforte is Cleopatra, and Scott Kradolfer is obviously Jesus Christ, but Joe DeAngelo is indeed a mystery.

Scott Kradolfer, Mark Liscomb, and Hartley Batchelder perform Fugue For Tin Horns

Missing another cue is Mr. Charles Djerf, making Lisa Brangiforte, Lisa Connolly, and Julie Flaherty seem to lose their patience.

Scott Kradolfer, Hartley Batchelder, Dan Pascarelli, and John Porcaro

Greg Mnasson brought down the house with his portrayal of Elvis, but did the King ever wear docksiders?

Ms. Petre, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Harris, Miss King, and Miss Dame

Mr. Scanlon and Mr. Ioanilli portrayed two love starved sailors in their rendition of Nothing Like A Dame.

They say that the second spot in the show is the most difficult, but Jackie Potter seemed to have no problem.

Scott Kradolfer supports a not-so-dainty Hartley Batchelder in Two Ladies.

Dan Pascarelli and Hartley Batchelder reveal their intentions to a distraught Scott Kradolfer.

As Mr. Uhler gets his chance in the spotlight, do we detect jealousy in the eyes of Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Scanlan, and Mr. Ioanilli?

Was it the thrill of the applause? The fun of the rehearsals? The tension of opening night? Whatever it was, we were back. Cabaret '88 marked the second Quincy High production directed by the new music teacher Salvador Bartalotti. After the success of Scrooge in December 1987, another show seemed not only feasible but possible.

Although QHS had put together many similar shows in the past, this one was to contain a surprise for many; not only were the traditional talents of the student body to be employed, but the faculty was to prove that it had a stage presence all its own.

Rehearsals a couple of times a week, costume fittings, a few lines to learn—for most of the students it was nothing new, and for some veterans it was a way of life. But the presence of teachers created a new spirit of competition, something akin to sibling rivalry. We weren't allowed to see them rehearse (continued on page 132)

Mrs. DeChristofaro, Mrs. Herbert, Ms. Dalton, and Mrs. Quintillani sing backup for Mr. Uhler. None of them will admit to loaning him the bra.

Presidents Spirit

The Varsity Cheerleaders show the importance of flexibility and trust in this balanced and synchronized mount.

Michelle Cashman and Sue Egan epitomize the true meaning of friendship.

Sharon Goodman, Todd Kimmell, Jim Dennett, and Chris Noble were selected as Ms. QHS Pride, Mr. Defense, Mr. Offense, and Mr. Touchdown. Don't they look regal in their crowns?

N. QUINCY RED ON T-DAY

Who has the most spirit here at Quincy High School? Your choices are band, cheerleaders, student council-pride committee, or the Q-Club. The Quincy High School Marching Presidents build spirit at rallies, football games, and parades with the school song "March down the field". Where you find the band, you will often find the cheerleaders as well. Their dedication and determination are quite obvious with spirit building cheers. The student council-pride committee is a newly formed organization to encourage pride at Quincy High and to boost moral and enthusiasm. The theme of this group is working together to keep President's pride alive. The Q-Club's sole purpose is to promote spirit and pride by wearing the school colors, and going to sporting events to cheer our teams on to victory.

Besides these groups mentioned, members of sports teams, clubs and committees show their spirit by getting involved. Last but not least, are the fans. They are made up of QHS students, faculty, parents, and alumni. They always smile and cheer loudly for the Presidents.

Spirit at Quincy High is not only shown by one group, but by all the groups mentioned. The blue and white pride is not just a feeling we all share, it's a way of life.

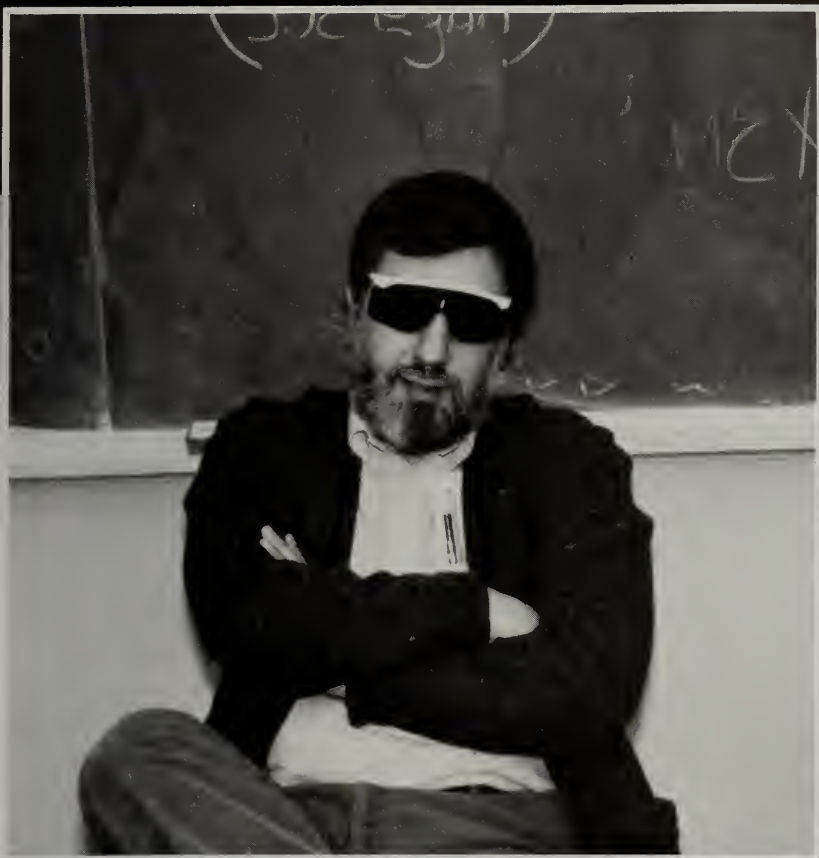

QHS fans Lisa O'Brien, Carrie Butrucchio, Sandi Wysocki, and Pam Blowers are very happy with the varsity football team's performance.

The Q-Club is showing its spirit - "Go Blue and White."

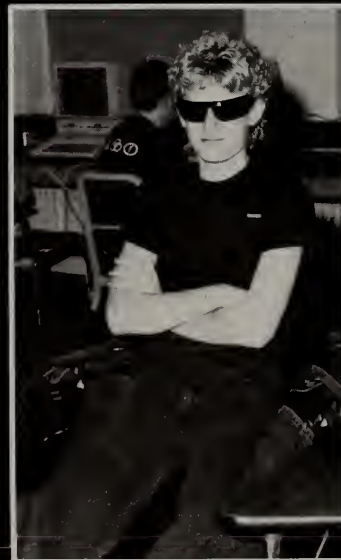

Candid Candids

Dave Chu innocently poses with Scott Grant. Little does Dave know Scott gave him the "bunny ears". Fooled ya Dave!

Watch out for Sandi Wysocki's killer sneeze. Keep that kleenex handy, Sandi! Below: Stacey Freel, and Scott Kradolfer are sandwiching Jessica Rutan in a giant bear hug.

What's so funny Mr. Dana Jones? Are you laughing at one of your jokes again, or is it this boy's report card. Either way both are something to laugh at.

Bret Batson is showing off his superb flexibility while reciting his famous Oral Roberts speech, "Does the Lord deserve a Lamborghini!".

Giving us a sour look is John Killen, who wasn't expecting a camera flash behind him.

Mr. Mosher tried to pay us not to print this one, but Josh Reidy and Mickey Kieman paid us more.

Here is Deanne DeSantis working hard as usual. No wonder she's on National Honor Society!!!

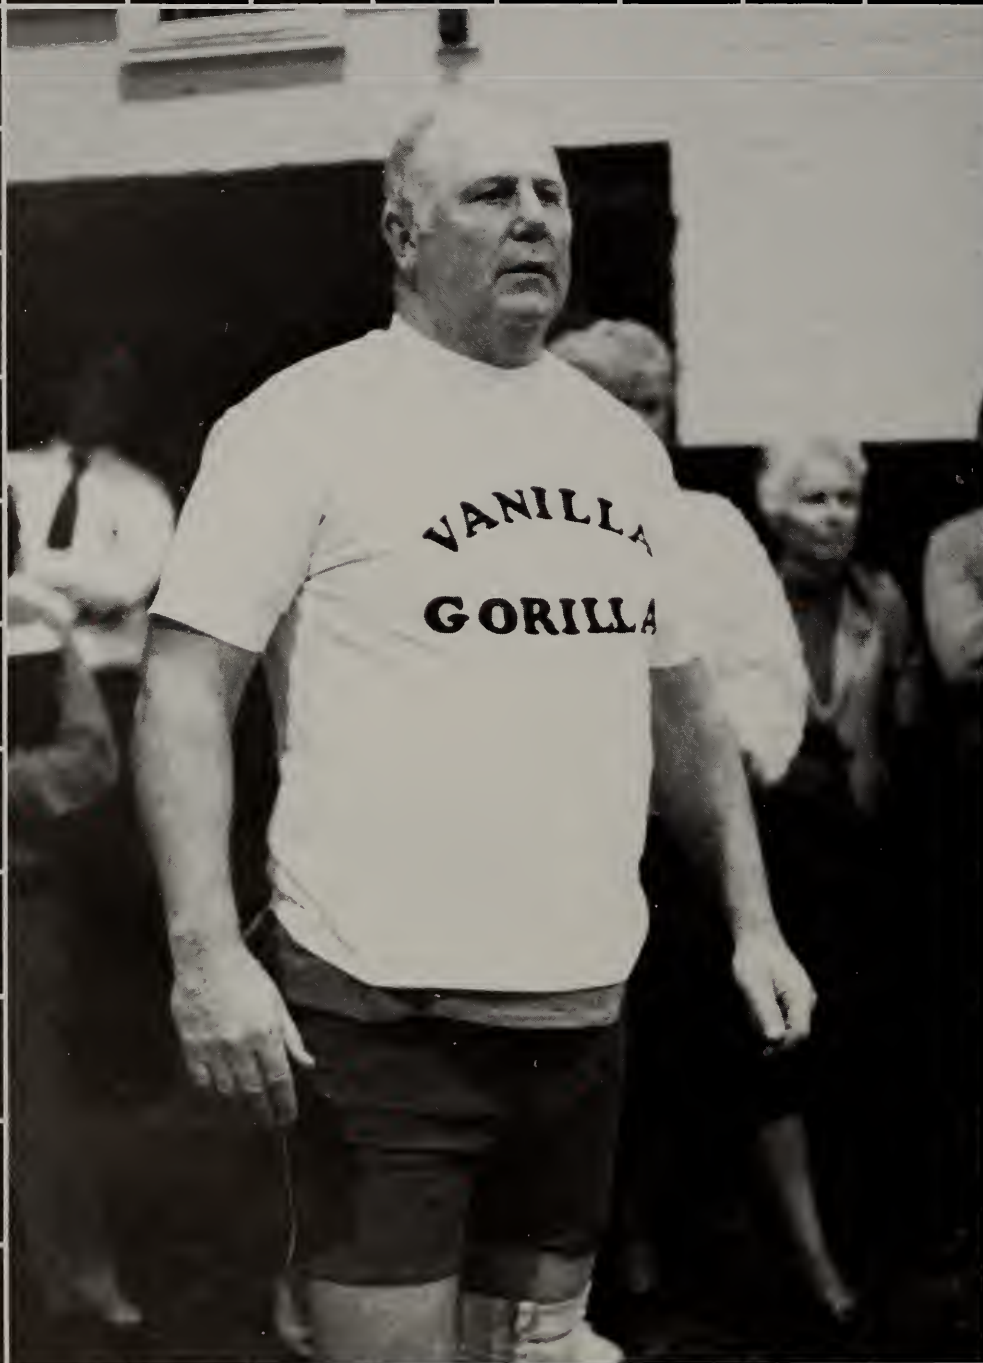

Joe Deery and Les LeHage wrap Victor Horton in ticker tape during their embalming class.

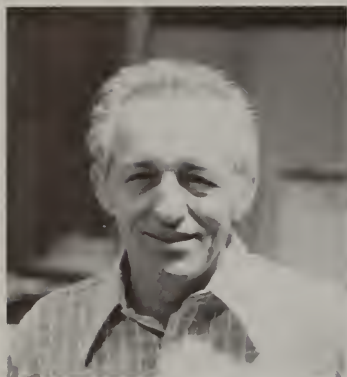

Scott Kradolfer laughs as Mike DeMaggio acts like his usual self... strange.

Is this some strange Quincy High torture? No, it's just physics for Maureen Cloonan.

Rally For Blue And White

Want a quick way to build up spirit? Have a rally. Some find it an excuse to get out of classes, but most students like to be a part of the pride of QHS. In one corner of the gym, one can find the band lead by Mr. Robert Coviello. They make the rally a rally because the songs they play get everyone psyched. This group is truly dedicated to their school. In the other corner of the gym is the Q-Club. This group, led by President Maura Golden, works out all the details. The individuals in the club represent a union of pride, determination and confidence in our school. The cheerleaders contribute to the rally through the signs and decorations they create along with their cheering. These give the upbeat atmosphere which carries over to the games. They back up the teams and give them the confidence to win. Last, but not least, . . . the fans. All those who clap and cheer make up the largest part of the rally. Without the support of the fans, the teams would have no incentive to win. The rally is an important tradition which serves its purpose well; creating the pride needed to make QHS the best.

Dawn Hartnett is ready to clap, which will signal the cheerleaders to move.

The Best That Can Be

Coach John Taglieri suggests a few pointers to Dave Nourse and Joe Baker.

After a winless season in 1987, the QHS-QVTS Football team was determined to bring back the winning spirit. They succeeded with a final record of 5-5. The most uplifting moment was the Thanksgiving Day game, where Quincy defeated North 29-21. The game was highlighted by the performances of Chris Noble, Scott Grant, Peter Olivieri, and Jim Dennett. On defense, Todd Kimmell, Brian Norris, Bob Austin, Dave Nourse, Ennio Eleuteri, and Scott O'Brien stopped North from making the plays they needed. It proved to be an excellent game with the trophy coming back to Quincy's pride room where it belongs.

The season opened on a high note as Quincy beat Cambridge 29-6, which was a confidence booster for the Presidents after a hot August full of practice. Two games, Peabody and Waltham, were lost by only one point which showed that against tough teams Quincy was just as tough. Great wins against Brookline, Malden, and Revere proved Quincy had what it took to win.

The players showed great teamwork. Captains Todd Kimmell, Chris Noble, Brian Norris, and Scott O'Brien provided leadership for the team. Chris Noble proved to be one of the best at his position this year. Scott Grant (alias Mr. Versatile) excelled at wide receiver, and defensive back Mark Miele was another great receiver who helped the Presidents win many games. Jim Dennett (a.k.a. Pistol) had an exceptional season at tailback. The fullback spot was graced by Dave Nourse, Pete Olivieri. Continued on page 46.

and Mark Bogan. Of course at the yardage could not be attained without a great offensive line made up of Don Hamilton, Tony Madden, Dave Zupkifka, Tom Morrell, Brian Norris, Joe Baker, Dan Hanly, Jody Beauchamp, and Todd Kimmell.

Quincy defense has always been known as a hard hitting, insane, and unpleasant group of individuals. The reputation has been upheld by the players and enforced by Coach Taglieri. Members of this group include Tom Morrell and Dan Hanly at defensive end, Brian Norris, Bob Austin, Phil Daley, Frank Ienello, and Joe Baker in the defensive trenches (Ahh the real men!!). At the linebacker positions were Dave Nourse, Alan Spaur, and Todd Kimmell. The crucial cornerback spots have been enlightened by Ennio Eleuteri and the Hard Hitter Scott O'Brien. Finally, the defensive back positions have been occupied by Scott Campbell, Mark Miele, and Scott Grant. Special teams this year have been a bright spot and have contributed in obtaining good field position many times.

Quincy Football has made a great comeback from previous disheartening seasons, and have had a magnificent year. Coaches Jack Raymer, Bob Noble, John Sullivan, and John Taglieri have been the key people in helping to turn this team around and they deserve a lot of credit. Definately the people who deserve the most credit are the team members themselves. They have given their best to the team and we are very proud to say that they represent us. Win or lose, Quincy Football is a great team effort.

Is Joe Baker carrying his teammate due to an injury or is he just happy to see him?

Chris Fay reaches up for another tremendous grab.

Brian Norris is ready to pounce on any opponent unlucky enough to come his way.

Tom Morrell stands vigilant, keeping a lookout for opponents to crush with another devastating hit.

Alan Spaur and Scott Buckmann lead the Presidents in drills.

Scott Grant is ready to grab any pass that comes his way, even if it's too high for him.

Scott O'Brien looks more like he's been hit by a steamroller than an opponent.

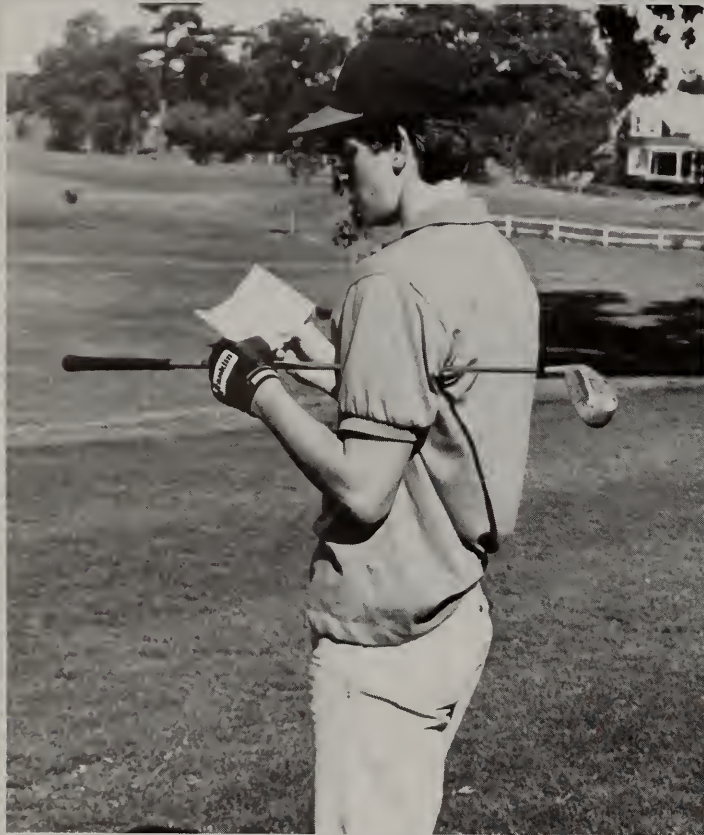

Peter Olivieri looks confident as he lines up for another play.

Scott Campbell is so good, he can catch the ball with his eyes closed.

Coach John Taglieri and Bob Austin:
just good friends.

Putt - Puttin' Away

Coach Sylvia

This year may not have been the best for Quincy High's golf team, but it is not to say that they didn't have fun. Their season ended with 2 wins against Cambridge and 10 losses. The Presidents were under direction of coach Robert Sylvia and commander George Peach. The only senior and captain was Chris Beatrice. The remaining members of the team were juniors Steven McInnis and Peter White; sophomore E.J. Nordstrom and freshmen Shane Abboud, Steven Loud and Rod Lynn. Coach Sylvia said "That Chris Beatrice has improved greatly over this past season." The blue and white pride is still on the green.

Boys Soccer

The 1988 Boys Soccer season was the best season the team has experienced in five years. The season was highlighted by wins over Malden, Medford, Peabody, and arch-rivals North Quincy. The team also tied Waltham twice and North Quincy once. Led by senior co-captains Oscar Jara, Tai Le, Pat O'Donnell, Dan Piccini, and Ray Rochon, the team competed on an equal level with all opponents. Both Dan Piccini and Ray Rochon were selected to the Suburban League All Star Team, and for Dan, this was the third consecutive year. Dan was also selected for the Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic Soccer Team.

The season's best match was against Silver Lake, the State Champions for 1988. Even though the Lakers scored the winning goal with less than five minutes remaining, the Quincy players played well.

Juniors Vanny Chaw, Joe Deery, John Gray, Pete Lespasio, Tong Meng, Brian Quigley and Marc Volpe were solid contributors all season, especially Brian who filled in for injured goal-keeper, Pat O'Donnell. O'Donnell was selected to the Suburban League All Star team in 1987 along with Tai Le.

The future of QHS soccer looks good as the number of skilled younger players is increasing. Sophomores Shawn Echelle, Melvin Garcia, Fadi Hanna, Ata Ibrahim, Dib Ibrahim, Yi Ping Ou, Khiem Phan, Luis Vasquez, and Chi Yu played well and provided a strong offense. Still, without a JV squad, the team had many freshmen playing in varsity matches. Tony Giannandrea, Jimmy Haris, John Lewis, Chris Loi, Dean Morris, Hai Truong, and Andy Veneziano did well all season.

Oscar Jara, late as usual, suits up and prepares for battle.

Ray Rochon beats out a Medford player who came a little too close for comfort.

Girls Soccer

The 1988 Girls Soccer Team was something of a change over the teams fielded in the recent past. Historically, the girls have been spirited yet severely undermanned, often having no substitutes for games. This year, the team blossomed to well over twenty active players, providing a lot of playing experience for several first year players. Under the instruction of their coach Mr. Metcalfe the girls practiced every other day at O'Rourke field and had games on the days in between. The Seniors on the team, Lisa Marani who had 3 goals, 5 assists, Pam Palardy who had 3 goals, 1 assist and Carolyn Busby who kept the defense together, showed great team effort throughout the season.

The team showed some significant improvement in a short period of time. Defensively, they cut the goals against average in half. There were only a few games where the Lady Presidents were outplayed, and these games were against long time league power-houses. Offensively, production came from several players, making a well-rounded offensive effort. The total "goals for" also doubled over last years tally.

The high point of the season come when the girls proved themselves victorious with their win over Revere by a score of 3-1. This win broke their losing streak of 3 years and definitely proved to everyone that Quincy High School's Girls Soccer Team is one worthy of respect.

These indicators spell nothing but good possibilities for the future. This year the team is only losing three players; Pam Palardy, Lisa Marani and Carolyn Busby, and as the young players gain experience the team will reap the benefits. Bathing

Although the girls' swim team did not have a great season record wise, their spirit still shined. They finished the season with a 1-11 record. Led by new coach Judy Kring, and co-captains Stacey Freel, and Cindy Galman, this year's team consisted of seniors Stacey Freel, Sharon Goodman, Ana Handal, Claudia Handal, and Doreen Smith; juniors Cindy Galman, Marsha Goodman, Lisa Olsen, and Liz Proude; sophomores Adriana Bagu, Dorata Brodzik, Sarah Goodman, Eileen Joyce, Chrissy Ross, and Kelly Ross; and freshmen Melissa Costa, Breeda Faherty, Ruth Fitzpatrick, Amy Galman, Judy Goodman, and Stephanie Post.

The girls' only win was over Weymouth North with a score of 83-80. The key to this victory was with Quincy's divers, Liz Proude and Chrissy Ross, who placed first and second respectively. The team lost to its rival North Quincy, but the meet was not totally unsuccessful. At this meet, Amy Galman won the breast stroke with a new school record of 1:21.17. She broke the record of 1:22.07 that was held by herself and her sister Cindy, which she had tied in an earlier meet.

The Suburban League Championships were also a success with several girls placing in the top 12 of their events. Amy Galman broke her breast stroke record again with a time of 1:20.9. The 200yd. medley relay team of Chrissy Ross, Amy Galman, Cindy Galman and Melissa Costa placed eighth, as well as the 400yd freestyle relay team of Amy Galman, Stephanie Post, Adriana Bagu and Melissa Costa. Cindy Galman placed eighth in the 200 yd. freestyle and seventh in the 500yd. freestyle.

The members of the team worked hard and it showed in their individual improvement in their times. With most of the team returning next year, they will hopefully have a much better season.

Bump! Set! Spike! Win! These words were not uncommon to the Quincy High Girl's Volleyball team. The Presidents, coached by Tom Henderson, finished their regular season with a record of 16-2. They then captured the title of Suburban League co-champions, and went on to tournament play. They started the tournament by defeating Brookline 3-0, and then went on to beat rival North Quincy 3-2. Quincy was now the South Sectional champion, and pumped full of spirit. Going into the States made the girls nervous, but they knew their toughest adversary, N.Q., was in the past. They quickly defeated Milford in the semi-finals by a score of 3-0, and won the big final game against Bishop Feehan 3-0, proving to all they are worthy to be State Champions.

The Presidents, led by senior captains Amy Guidice and Nancy Laitinen, had that winning combination that came from great effort and hard work. The rest of this determined squad are senior Melissa Sullivan, juniors Randi Gaura, Liz Vo, Carmin Wergin, sophomores Christine Barrett, Jennifer Richmond and Melanie Sullivan.

The future of Quincy High is in the hands of the junior varsity team. They finished with an outstanding record of 17-1. The J.V. was led by the great plays of Erin Doherty, Rhonda Gaura, Karen Leonard, Julie McCloskey, Lori Novak, and Maureen Shea. Quincy High Volleyball has a tradition of winning, which is seen by the banners on the gym wall. This tradition seems to go on . . . and on . . . and on . . .

Cross Country

The 1988 boys and girls Cross Country teams ended the season with a 0-6 record. Despite these losses, great effort was contributed by all. The captains of the boys' team were Mike Perkins, John Menz and Jim Sugrue. The girls' captains were Kim Robertson, Jessica Rutan, and Beth Weixler.

At one of the track meets, Maureen Cully didn't follow directions and ended up running to Avon, the neighboring town. Even at our own course she gets lost. The teams were led by coaches Mr. John Franceschini and Mr. Doug MacFarlane. Both teams ended the season with great running.

King of the Hill

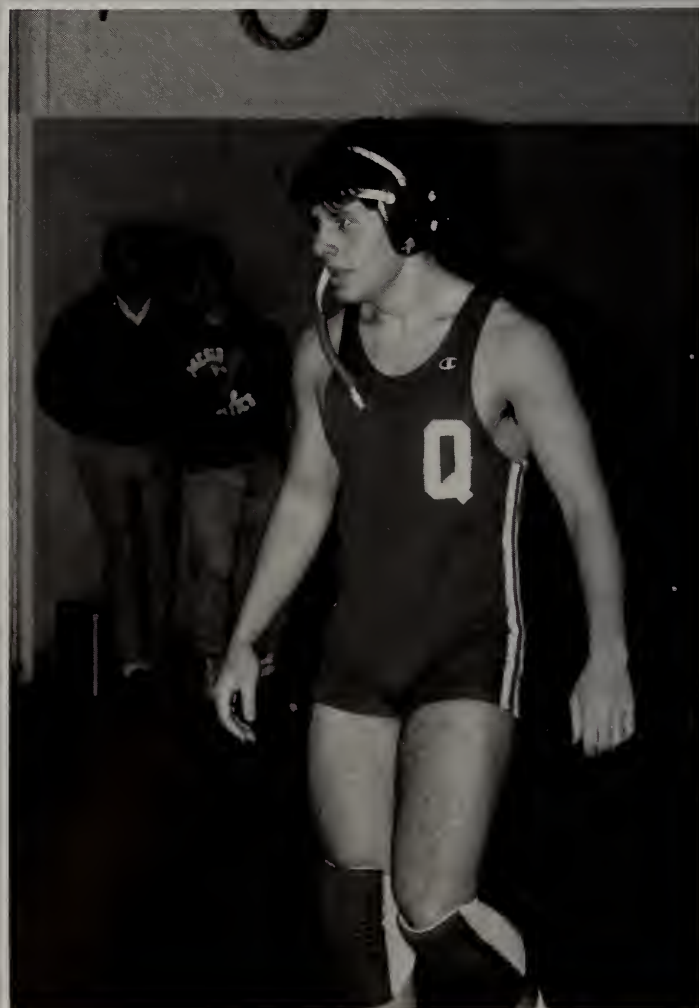

The 1988-1989 Wrestlers had a fine season of 12-5 with a second place showing in the Suburban League and a fifth in the Sectionals. Seniors contributing to the effort were Co-Captain Todd Kimmell (145 lbs.) who won his second Suburban League Championship and All-Star berth, placed second in the sectional and sixth in the state. Todd earned a place on the Patriot Ledger All-Scholastic Team. Co-Captain Scott O'Brien (135 lbs.) took home a second at the Suburban League Tourney. Tim Schultz (103 lbs.) placed third in the Suburban League and fifth in the section. Ennio Eleuteri (130 lbs.) was a solid contributor to this year's team. Sean Gannon (171 lbs.) improved tremendously and was the outstanding wrestler against North Quincy. Tony Madden (Heavyweight) recorded the most falls and was fourth in the section. Robert Conolly (140 lbs.) was solid all year and placed fourth in the sectional tourney and third in the Suburban League Tourney. Rob Grant (140 lbs.) pinned his opponent in his varsity match and first-year wrestler John Killen filled in where needed.

QHS Basketball Bounces Back

The Quincy High School Boys' Varsity Basketball program has come a long way from a 2-18 season last year. They finished the season with an 8-12 record, and a City Championship status defeating North Quincy two games to one.

Forward Captains Mike Perkins and Chris Noble led the President's starting team. Guards Oscar Jara and Joey Russell, along with Jody Beauchamp, center complete the starting lineup. Other Seniors include: Jim Sugrue and Dan Hanly as forwards, and John Menz and Scott Campbell as guards. Junior forward Mike Scolaro, and Sophomore guards E.J. Nordstrom and Ralph Bevilacqua also saw varsity playing time every game.

The Presidents boast two Suburban League All-Stars, Mike Perkins and Jody Beauchamp. Jody was the leading scorer and rebounder for Quincy, and proved to be a great addition to the team. Mike has been a strong point every year he has played, and has been a good leader.

Head coach John Franceschini and his assistants Mike Dracchio and Ray Papile all deserve much credit for their hard work and effort for a much improved season in the always difficult Suburban League.

To say that the QHS Girls Basketball Team had a young team this year is certainly an understatement. The team, coached by Doug McFarlane, was composed of one freshman, seven sophomores, two juniors, and two seniors.

Although the team recorded only two wins, the season proved to be rewarding. As the season progressed, the young First Ladies made unbelievable improvement. The awkward mistakes slowly began to disappear.

The girls who were a part of this hard working team were senior Captains Kim Robertson and Sharon Goodman, Juniors Maureen Shea and Lisa Morrell, Sophomores Melanie Sullivan, Christine Barrett, Jennifer Richmond, Julie McCloskey, Erin Doherty, Amy Baker and Jennifer Dondero, and Freshman Kim Marsden.

Q.H.S. Hockey

The 1988-89 Hockey Team consisted of five seniors. Captain Tim Mann, Asst. Captain Mike Noonan, center John Lacara, Right wing Marc Cafano, and goalie Kevin Johnston. The team scoring was mainly done by Tim Mann, who led the team with 22 goals. Mike Noonan, whose season unfortunately ended with an injury, had 9 goals and 11 assists. Marc Cafano was a surprise with 4 goals and 13 points on the year. John Lacara was held scoreless, but was a plus on defense. Kevin Johnston played well when in goal, while splitting goaltending duties with Craig Galligan. The seniors would like to thank the fans and the school, and especially thanks the coaching staff of Bob Sylvia, Bob Troup, and George Peache.

Boys Swimming

Mr. Mac's Girls Winter Track

The Girls Winter Track team ran strong throughout the season, but turned up with no victories. At each meet, the girls scored between 20 and 30 points each time.

For the first time in about 5 years, the girls won the 4 X 440 relay. The relay was won when they were running against Waltham and Newton North. The winning relay team consisted of Lori Novak, Karin Picarski, Jessica Rutan and Beth Weixler.

During the season, many personal times improved, resulting in the qualifications to the Suburban League Meet and the State Meet. Four athletes were involved in the Suburban League Meet. Tri-Captains Jessica Rutan and Beth Weixler competed in the 50 yd. hurdles and Karin Picarski in the 50 yd. dash. Deanne DeSantis also competed in the shot put. Beth finished 3rd in the league in the hurdles and achieved her personal best time. Both Beth and Karin ran at the State Meet, but did not place.

The season ended with a banquet, at which Coach Charles MacLaughlin presented Karin Picarski with an MVP award.

Despite the smallness of the team, the QHS Girls Track team was tough competition and full of school spirit and good sportsmanship.

Run Away Boys Winter Track

Inset: John Nittinger seems to be doing something unusual . . . laughing while he's running.

The 1989 boys track team consisted of only eight members due to a very sparse turn out of boys. Despite the numbers, the team still managed to compete at every meet.

One of the best meets was against Newton North when John Nittinger placed first in the high jump with a jump of five feet four inches. They also had outstanding performances by Tom Pratt and Chris Polito, with Tom placing first in the fifty yard dash and a first place finish by Chris in the fifty yard hurdles. There was also another first place finish in the six hundred yard dash by Dave Zupkofska. The most outstanding performance was by Junior Rich Kisiel with the most surprising finish in the one mile race. During most of the race he was behind, but on the last three hundred meters he sprinted to end up with a firstplace finish. Other members of the team who gave greater contributions were Dan Piccini, Adam Ayer and Dean Aiguier.

Hitting It Home

Through hard work and a fantastic varsity team, Quincy's baseball reached the semifinals in 1988. Unfortunately, graduation stole many of these superstars away. Even though none of this year's starters have Varsity experience, with the help of Coach Sylvia, Quincy is rebounding.

The team is led by Seniors Mike Noonan and Chris Beatrice. Helping out for the team are other Seniors Bob Austin, Bob Cinquegano, Dave Adams, and Tim Mann.

Filling in the other positions on the field are Juniors Rich Burns, Aaron Skomial, and Steve McGinnis. The promising Sophomores that are involved are John Fahey and Tom Balzano, who are pointing to a bright future. The team is rounded out with Rich Kissell and Jim Peters.

Some people are left with the questions: "Who's on first? What's on second? And I don't know is on third?" Will these questions ever be solved? Tune into an Abbott and Costello rerun to solve the mystery.

Quincy High School Softball, led by Senior Co-Captain Kim Robertson, is off to a good start this season. After dropping its first three games, Quincy High has come back to win the next three out of five, beating Medford, Brookline, and Cambridge.

The team boasts a strong infield comprised of Senior Kim Holt (3rd base), Sophomore and Co-Captain Christine Barrett (Shortstop), Juniors Maureen "Chedder" Shea (2nd base), and Lisa Morrell (1st base), Sophomore Melanie Sullivan (1st base). The outfield is anchored by Sopho-

Quincy is aiming for its first winning season in several years, and with Coach Piccini this seems very possible. Mr. Piccini wishes the best of luck for the class of '89, but especially to Kim Robertson, Kim Holt, and Mellisa Sullivan.

Boys Tennis

This year's Boys Tennis Team started off strong. Led by team Captain Oscar Jara's undefeated play at first Varsity singles, Quincy won its first 3 matches with considerable ease. Strong efforts throughout the season were also turned in by Varsity players John Drohan at 2nd singles, Darren Murphy at 3rd singles & 1st doubles, Mike Falco also 1st doubles, & Allan Larson & Robert Trifone at 2nd doubles.

The team was coached by QHS alumnus and current English teacher Dana Jones, who through knowledgeable and challenging coaching, unified the Quincy squad, instilling in it, if nothing else, a winning spirit.

The team's Junior Varsity squad also had a meritorious season. It's members: Darryl Meng, John LaCara, Dean Tantillo and Chris Beauchamp, did their best to back up the Varsity team by giving their all in JV matches and filling in for injured Varsity players.

The 1989 Boys Tennis team, led by an enthusiastic coach & outstanding players, put forth an admirable effort in having an exceptional year.

What A Racket!

The Quincy Girls Tennis Team has had an encouraging turnout of participants this season. Most of the girls that joined the team last season have returned, bringing their talents for the upcoming year.

Quincy's roster includes seniors Carolyn Busby, Maureen Cloonan, Jenny Iorio, Sarah Joyce, Sandy Mak, Patricia Stewart, and Mary Vo. Juniors are Arlene Amo, Debbie Brown, Alison Caldwell, Kelli Galligan, Elizabeth Gonzales, Violet Kambanis, Alina Mak, Nhi Ngu, and Elizabeth Vo. Renee Barsanti, Terri Calhoun, Jennifer D'Alessandro, Sarah Goodman, Eileen Joyce, Ann ed in her two season matches. Sharing the spotlight are Elizabeth Vo, who carries out the number two position, and Tricia Stewart, who plays number three singles.

Mary Vo and Carolyn Busby make up the number one doubles team and Arlene Amo, Alina Mak, Debbie Brown, and Maureen Cloonan interchange to create the number two doubles.

Because Quincy has so many returning varsity players who have developed a wide range of skills throughout their years, Quincy's season should be a bright and prosperous one.

Kane, Winna Mai, and Lynne Swanson make up the Sophomore class members, with Renee Letourneau as the lone freshman this year.

Quincy opened its season on a bright spot this year by defeating Braintree in a scrimmage. Their first Suburban League Match was against cross city rival North Quincy, where Quincy swept North 5-0.

Amongst the Varsity Crew is first singles Jennifer D'Alessandro who remains undefeat-

Girls' Spring Track

This year's Spring Track season was quite different from previous seasons. The biggest surprise was the number of girls who signed up. With the coaching of John Franceschini, and assistant coaching by Ray Papile, and Kris Picarski, the team held together, and everyone improved their speed, time, and/or distance by the end of the season.

Perhaps the Newton North runners included seniors Carrie Buttricio, Sharon Goodman, Dawn Hartnett, Kristy Light and Shiloh Thompson, juniors Jennifer Pettinelli and Marsha Goodman, sophomores Barbara Mullin, Kim Perry, Georgia Michalakakis, Corie Echeverria, Christine Miele, Courtney Tierney and Dale Parry and freshmen Ruth Fitzgerald, Maureen O'Donnell, Amy Dunn, Michelle Latham, Jessica Picarski, Ann Murphy, Sarah Edwards, Becky Siteman and Terry McCann.

Looking back at last year's season, there was a surprise to everyone. For the first time in many years, the girls track team came up victorious against North Quincy. This spectacular event will long be remembered by all of those who participated.

At the beginning of the season, Beth Weixler, Karin Picarski and Jessica Rutan were chosen as tri-captains. With the support of these girls, it seemed that nothing could go wrong. But it did. Beth developed a stress fracture in her ankle and was not permitted to train. Though the team was minus one captain, all of the girls were able to say that it was a successful season and more important, they had fun.

Coach said it best: "Well, it looks like Quincy's got quite a few more runners this year." Actually, there were twice as many girls on the team than last year. About thirty new girls signed up in March and almost all of them stayed with it. The veteran runners included: Karin Picarski, Beth Weixler, Jessica Rutan, Deanne DeSantis, Julie McCloskey, Jennifer Richmond, Jennifer Verlicco, Lori Novak, Sharon Kavanagh, Christine Ross, Maureen Cully and Jackie Potter. The new

Boys Spring Track

The Boys spring track team had an outstanding turnout this year of fifty four athletes. The team was led by Senior captains Todd Kimmell, High Jumper, Triple Jumper and 110 High Hurdler, and Scott Campbell 400 Runner, Long Jumper, and 4x400 Relay Runner. This year's team hopes to improve individual performances and improve its record, especially with a victory over cross town rival N.Q. Fine individual performances were turned in by Chris Noble, High Hurdles, Chris Fay, 100 Runner, Long and Triple Jumper; Joe Baker, Mike Tempesta, and Tom Morrell in the Disc and Shot Put; Mark Bogan, Jason Anderson, Frank Cavino, and Chris Fay in the relay; Lou Pagnani, Chris Walker, and Gary Collins in the 300 Hurdles; and Steve O'Donoghue and Mike Flavin in the 200. Special credit goes to the other athletes participating in various distance events. All have improved greatly in an overall team improvement process. This year, Coach Raymer is once again assisted by John Taglieri, Field Event Coordinator, and Bob Noble, Middle Distance coordinator. Quincy Track is on the way back!

V-Ball Rap

The Boys' Volleyball team may lack numbers, but they make up for it with their enthusiasm. With an original rap style cheer for his team, here is Dave Chu.

Presidents Pounce

The Turkey Day Game is the biggest game of the year for every football fan and player in Quincy. When the day arrived, on our first offensive series, Quincy began a drive, sparked by Peter Olivieri, who chewed up the yardage on the ground. Olivieri's running set up a scoring pass from Chris Noble to Scott Grant. Noble rushed for the extra points, giving Quincy an 8-0 lead.

North stormed back to tie the score, and on Quincy's next series fumbles and miscues began to plague the Presidents. However, Quincy's defense, led by Dave Nourse, Todd Kimmell, Scott O'Brien, Brian Norris, Dan Hanly, Ennio Eleuteri and Bob Austin, came on to stop North.

Quincy took a 14-8 lead on an acrobatic catch by Grant from Noble. The conversion failed, and both defenses dominated the next two possessions. Suddenly, North scored on a long bomb pass, and converted, giving North a 15-14 lead.

Near the end of the first half NQ drove the field and scored, leaving the score Raiders 21, Presidents 14. In the second half, Quincy's defense completely stymied North's offense and Raider star Ryan Craig. Two penalties hurt the Raiders, and the Presidents seized the advantage, with the scores coming from newcomer Jody Beauchamp, with the conversion pass to Mark Miele making the score 22-21 Presidents!

Quincy's defense stuffed North's momentum again with Quincy scoring on its final drive, behind the running of Jim Dennett and the passing combo of Noble and Grant. Noble scored, diving over from the one. Norris kicked the extra point, making the score 29-21 for keeps.

The QHS football players had proven themselves; putting the City Championship Trophy back where it belongs--in the QHS Pride Room! 1988's Turkey Day classic deserves an honored spot in every QHS student's heart.

Todd Kimmell denies a North player any passage, and with only one arm!

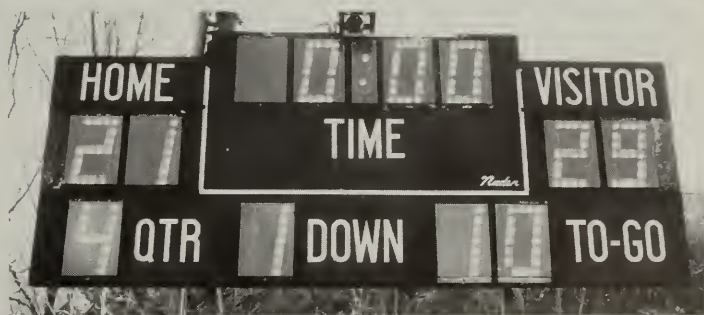

Quincy, while making a grand entrance, gets booed by North. But we all know who had the last laugh.

A dirty Jody Beauchamp looks to the field with a concerned glance. Jim Dennett looks on, also worried, but both helped lead the team to a victory.

Below, Captain Chris Noble scrambles from the North defense, while Pete Olivieri and Don Hamilton wait for oncoming Red Shirts.

Catching a touchdown pass is Jody Beauchamp, as Scott Grant assists. Great footwork; the North player didn't know what hit him.

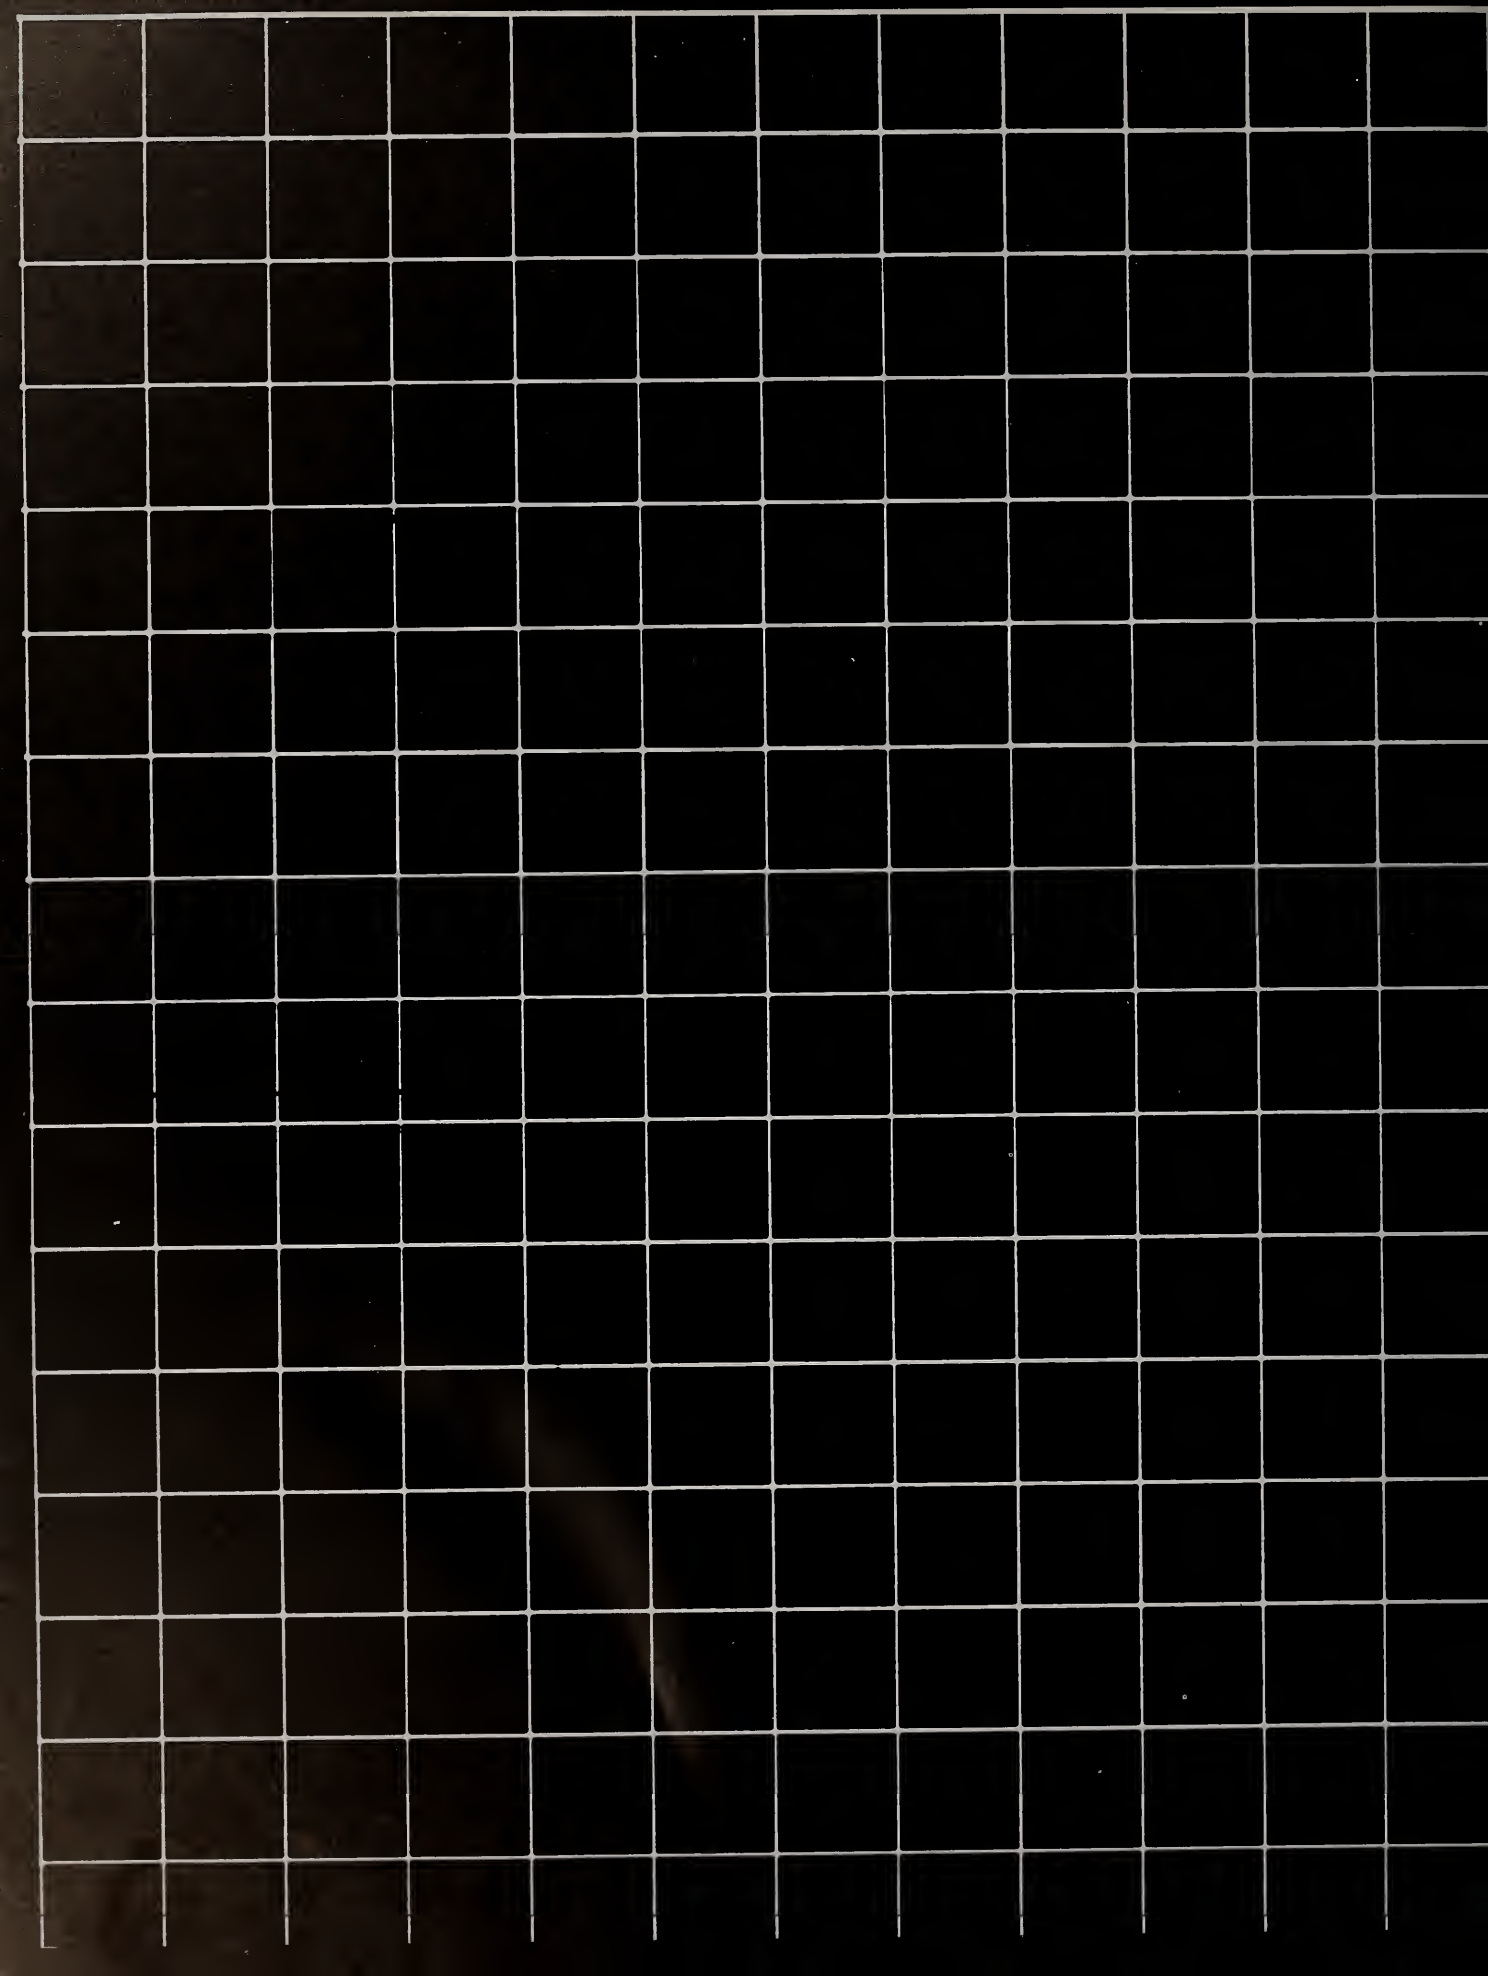

The Quincy defense looks nasty, ready to take on anything North has to offer.

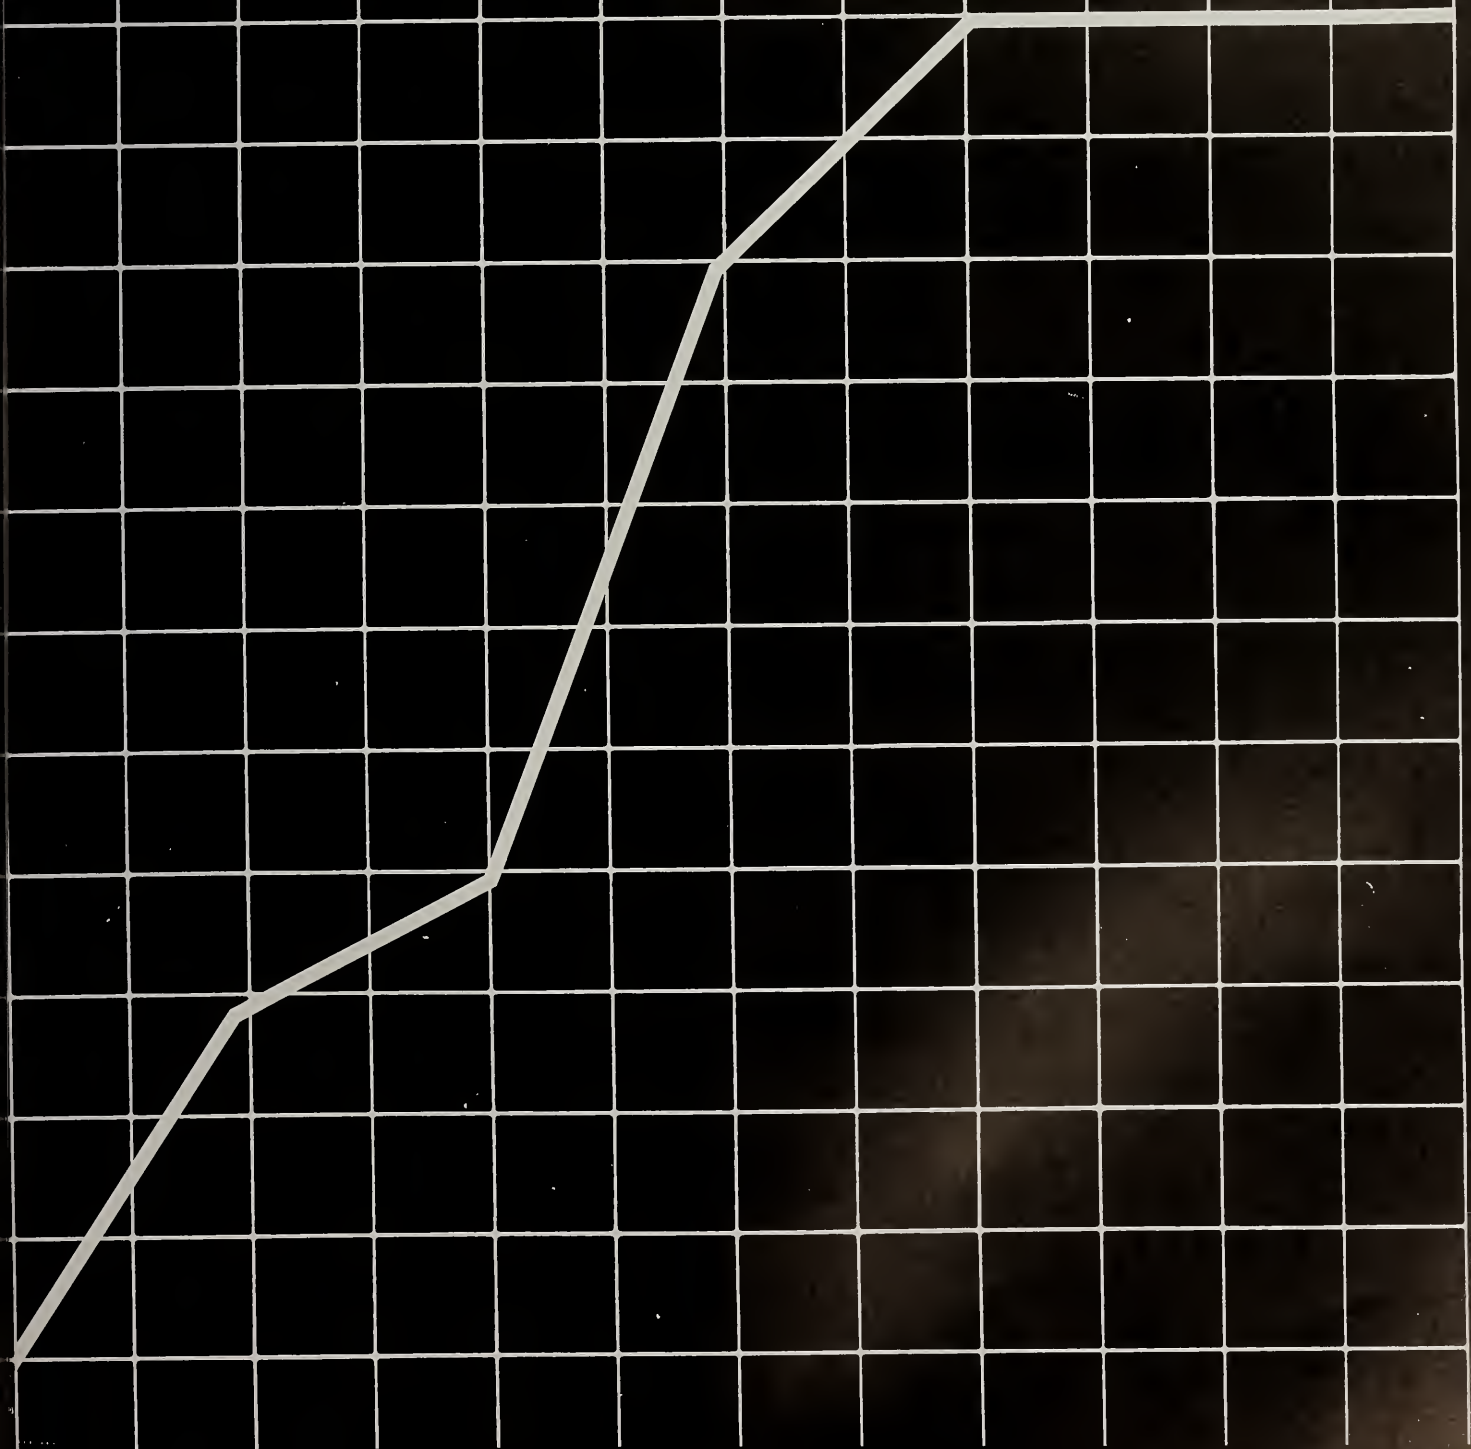

Dave Zupkofska and a host of other Quincy defensive players swarm North leaving nothing on the play.

The final score just as it should be. Quincy over North... the trophy looks mighty good!

The Quincy stands were filled with cheering fans. They had the help of the JV and Varsity Cheerleaders, and led the team to a much deserving win.

Organizations

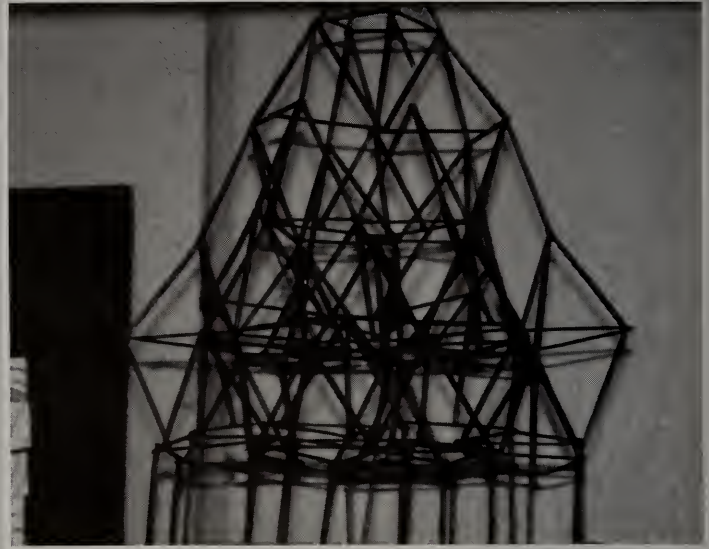

Painting Our Future

The Art Club has been very busy this year. They have been involved in many activities involving the students and school.

They have designed sets for school plays, created a mural for the cafeteria, worked on a cable t.v. show, set up displays in the main lobby, and have been busy getting their portfolios ready for art school.

The idea for the mural came up when it was suggested by the Student Council. They wanted to liven up the cafeteria. The idea for the mural was to represent the different personalities in Quincy High. As a result, the cafeteria looks great and many people seem to appreciate the painting. The Art teacher, Mr. Fariello, was the advisor. The President of the Art Club is Sarah Joyce, Vice-President Mary Vo and Coordinators Tricia Stewart, Maura Golden and Maureen Cloonan.

Checkmate

The Chess Club meets every Thursday afternoon in room 304. People who are interested in playing chess usually gather together to play. The members this year are Jim Iorio, Angelo Stavrokopoulos, Jerry Stavrokopoulos, Allan Larson, Ha Huynh, David Nie, Penny Chen, Sean Gannon, Benvic Leung, Yong Fang, Bret Batson, Mark Volpe, and Irene Tse. Whether they play Chinese Chess or American Chess, they always have a good time.

The Chess Club is new to Quincy High. It was reopened by Jimmy Iorio and Mr. Arnold Rubin last year. Jimmy used all kinds of "advertisements" to enlist kids in the club, like reading the Chess Club announcements in Chinese to entice new members. He even created a chess competition last year.

The yearbook staff had significant difficulty trying to find tangible evidence of the existence of the computer club. No one would admit to being an actual member, but this is most likely because no one wanted to write the yearbook story.

The Computer Club began with a bang this year. Dave Nie and Sean Gannon each claimed the presidency, even though we have no officers. Early on games seemed to be the predominant reason for the club's existence. Each club day players challenged each other and the computers to see who was the best. Generally the computers won.

Students can be found in the computer rooms almost any afternoon and morning working on homework given by their math teachers.

These are the real reasons for the computer club's existence . . . to make computers accessible to all students, to increase knowledge and to have fun. In these regards, it has been a successful year.

Acting Out Life

"And then we can have Micky say his line while the roller skaters, on water skis, jump through the hoops of fire and yell 'Albatross! Albatross!'" No this was not a rehearsal for the Ringling Brothers Circus but one of the QHS Drama Club's blocking sessions. For all we lack in facilities and finances, the club certainly has no deficiency of creativity.

That was shown in our "experimental" performance last year in Agatha's Rather. It may not have been a financial success, but this three act murder mystery comedy, performed in April of 88, certainly kept the cast entertained. The cast included Bret Batson, Julie Flaherty, Marsha Goodman, Billy Griffiths, Michael Kieman, Amy Kufert, Robert Purpura, Rodney Spear and Mr. Dana Jones (as the dead body).

This year the club plans to present another comedy, a spoof on Shakespeare, called "Macbeth Did It". Although some of the humor is dated (70's camp) the club plans to make the performance as memorable as it's previous productions. This years cast includes Bret Batson, Deanne DeSantis, Julie Flaherty, Stacey Freel, Judy Goodman, Marsha Goodman, Corey Grier, Micky Kieman, John Killilea, Scott Kradolfer, Jennifer Newcomb, Gretchen O'Hare, John Porcaro, Rodney Spear, Beth Weixler, Kelly Wilson.

Shooting For Fun

The Rifle Club in 1989 was very educational and fun for all the members. The first meeting was like the first chapter out of a bad mystery novel. The people eyed each other over, as did Mr. Ken Worth. All had the same question—Who was the Best?

But that question had to be put on hold for a couple of weeks. In those two weeks we had four class lessons on firearm safety and the workings of the individual rifles. Once the firing range sessions started, the "sharpshooters" evolved. From amongst the shooters Joe Yang emerged as the best "shot" in the club. Dan Piccini and Jason Mackay made a very attempting to find the one that worked for us. Everyone found their own except Jason Mackay. The rifle stocks were too small for Jason, so in desperation Mr. Worth lent him his own rifle, a Winchester 52. Understandably, Jason's scores went up. Joe Yang, however, still held the limelight, shooting 79-93 out of a possible 100. Dan Piccini (68-78) shot well, as did Jason (70-85) and Beth (60-75).

The year went well. We shot, had fun, and learned without realizing it. Mr. Worth was very understanding and helped out every member like he or she was a son or daughter. Thanks a lot, Mr. Worth.

good showings during their sessions at Atlantic's Range. As a Q.H.S. Rifle Club first, one of the girls decided to try her hand at shooting. Beth Sullivan took to shooting with enthusiasm, and proved she could hold her own in the club.

Like Beth, many of the new members took well to shooting. There were, however, a few bumps along the way. For the first few weeks we were forced to play "Musical Rifles", Clockwise: Joe Yang, Jason MacKay, Beth Sullivan, Frank Zhou, and Dan Piccini.

The Rowdy Bunch: The Q-Club

If you looked at every rally, the Q-Club could be seen in the far right side of the Voch-Tech gym showing its pride for Quincy High. The club was certainly a success this year. Not only was there a great turn out of members, but for the first time in Q.H.S. history boys were allowed to join. Because so many people were involved, the Q-Club was able to give the cheerleaders a hand decorating for the Thanksgiving Day Rally and selling flowers on Blue and White Day. This year was a great deal of fun and as for the 'old' Q-Club, well it's alive and well!

Music To our Ears

Below: Adorned with new uniforms, The President's Marching Band displayed Blue and White Pride. A pride of 5-51

The Marching Presidents, under the direction of Mr. Robert Coviello, have made the 1988-1989 school year a success. Although famous for their performances at football games the band could also be found at many other important events. Whether this group of young musicians played at rallies and school concerts or parades and ceremonies for the city, the pride that these students displayed for Quincy showed clearly.

From the beginning of football season to graduation in June, the band was always busy practicing or playing. At the start of the year, the band chose officers. Those elected were Scott Kradolfer, President; Joe DeAngelo, Vice-President; Eileen Sullivan, Secretary; and Jessica Rutan, Treasurer. Scott Kradolfer was also named as Drum Major. During the football season a student from the Berklee School of Music came to work with the band. Everyone enjoyed working with Miss Tan and the experience was greatly appreciated by all.

Throughout the year, the band played at many school activities, such as rallies and concerts. Though only two concerts were given this year—the Christmas Concert and the Pops concert—the great performances made up for the time intervals. The group could also be seen playing in the Cafeteria at Christmas time and in the Method Center for the Eighth Grade Assembly. Both are annual events and are important contributions to the new spirit of the day.

The music of the Presidents was also heard at many city events. Quincy High has always been represented in the Christmas Parade and the Veteran's Day Ceremony. This year the band attended Quincy's 100 year anniversary Celebration in Quincy Center. One of the longer and less popular activities attended by the band was the St. Patrick's Day parade that goes through South Boston. Walking up and down hills and carrying an instrument for six miles was not as easy as it seems!

Being part of the band and cheering for the teams is just as important as being an athlete. Whether students are known for their flute playing, touchdowns, or strikeouts, one thing is certain: all who participate take pride in Quincy High School and want to represent it the best way they can.

Quincy's J.V. Cheerleaders!

This year our Quincy High JV cheerleading squad consisted of five juniors and nine sophomores. The JV squad cheers for varsity soccer, varsity hockey, JV football, the second and fourth quarters of varsity football games (alternating with the varsity squad), and the two Quincy vs. North JV basketball games.

But there is more to being a cheerleader than merely attending the games. They decorate the fields and the rink, bake for the players, and make sheet signs for the hockey players, not to mention the many hours they put into preparing for games and rallies. The girls who made up this year's squad are co-captains Melanie McPhee and Maureen Henwood along with Lisa Connolly, Janet DiTullio, Shannon Evans, Michelle Forde, Eileen Kelley, Dawn Manton, Lori Novak, Gina Piccarini, Lisa Reeves, Colleen Skehan, and Melanie Sullivan.

We're Ready To Say.. HELLO

"Pride, Spirit, qualities we combine- united together- the Class of 89." These words held true for this year's "88-89" Quincy High School Varsity Cheerleaders. Through dedication, hardwork, mixed with a lot of fun, the Cheerleaders have created an atmosphere of great enthusiasm and pride in our school.

Our names were posted and the practices began; after school, over the summer, in the hot sun, and soaking rain. Cheers and routines were drilled over and over till we could do them in our sleep, pillowcase delivery & car washes. We've all grown to know each other and become very close friends. An undescrivable high for us was when we placed 4th in the state cheering competition, & we were so very proud of the Presidents on Turkey Day "88". Through the aid and encouragement from Mrs. DeCristofaro and Miss Lynn Crossman we've made this "88-89" year a success and no matter what our future holds after graduation, we'll forever be cheerleaders at heart- We love you, QHS.

but all our hard work seemed well worth it when applause echoed on our behalf at rallies and games.

One of the most prestigious accomplishments for young musicians is to become a member of the Southeast District Singers. This is a group of students from all over the state who must go through a highly competitive audition to gain admittance. The four students pictured at the left, John Porcaro, bass, Lisa Branglforte, alto, Ruthie Hernandez, alto, and Scott Kradolfer, tenor, auditioned for and were selected for the Districts. Color With Pride

Below: At the North game, the Color-guard smiles brightly as Quincy beats North 29-21.

One group at Quincy High that is always showing its school spirit is the Color Guard. Under the direction of Maureen Cully and the leadership of Captain Debbie Brown, the Color Guard has made spectacular performances at the football games, rallies, and parades.

Juniors Debbie Brown, Ruthie Hernandez, Alison Caldwell, Lorrie Swanton, Kristin Woodbury, and Shannon Evans have been in Color Guard for three years. Two year members include Juniors Karen Bell, Melissa Freel, Cindy Rollins, and Senior Joanne Moriarty. Freshmen Jackie Freel and Stacey Pezzulo were great additions for their first year.

The Color Guard members are very dedicated. During football season they practice every Tuesday and Thursday night, as well as some Sunday afternoons. The girls work hard to show off their Q.H.S. pride. They participate in all the band fundraisers, including candy sales and car washes. After spending so much time together, the band and Color Guard members inevitably become very close; many strong friendships are formed, as well as some romances.

The Color Guard works hard together to write and learn drills. The flag drills are sometimes difficult, but the streamer drills, which the girls usually find more fun, are a bit easier to learn. For the Memorial Day parade, Debbie Brown and Ruthie Hernandez managed to write a whole flag drill in about five minutes . . . learning it took slightly longer.

One Color Guard member was regrettably lost to another school activity. Shannon Evans became a cheerleader when Ruthie Hernandez came back to Color Guard full time. Shannon will be greatly missed by the other members—the cheerleaders are very lucky.

Color Guard isn't all fun. Captain Debbie Brown is very strict, and she enforces "severe punishments". When Kristin Woodbury and Alison Caldwell hid behind the stadium to avoid doing the school song drill, Debbie forced them to do fifty flag spins. With the heavy flags, this can be painful!

The highlight of the past season was the big Quincy win over North at the annual Turkey game (but let's not forget the wonderful new uniforms!).

Although one member is graduating, next year's Color Guard will include the same spirited crowd. Hopefully, with some new members as well as the old, the Color Guard will continue to be as exciting for the spectators and as fun for the members as it has been this year.

National Honor Society

Below: The receiving line for the new inductees of 1989 consisted of Charles MacLaughlin, Paul Karhu, Beth Weixler, Edward Nankin and George Yezukevich.

This year the Quincy High Chapter of the National Honor Society had a new twist. Juniors were now an addition to the Honor Society, allowing more underclassmen aspire to be academically distinctive. Senior officers who provided leadership this year were President Deanne DeSantis, Vice-President Beth Weixler, Secretary Julie Flaherty, and Treasurer Dan Piccini. Along with running the meetings, the officers had to work alongside their advisor, Mr. Paul Karhu, to provide many fundraisers to earn money for scholarships at the end of the year.

The Honor Society consists of 10 Seniors and 6 Juniors for the 1988-1989 school year. These students are chosen by receiving distinction almost every term and maintaining an Honors 85 average. Also, these students must be involved in extracurricular activities.

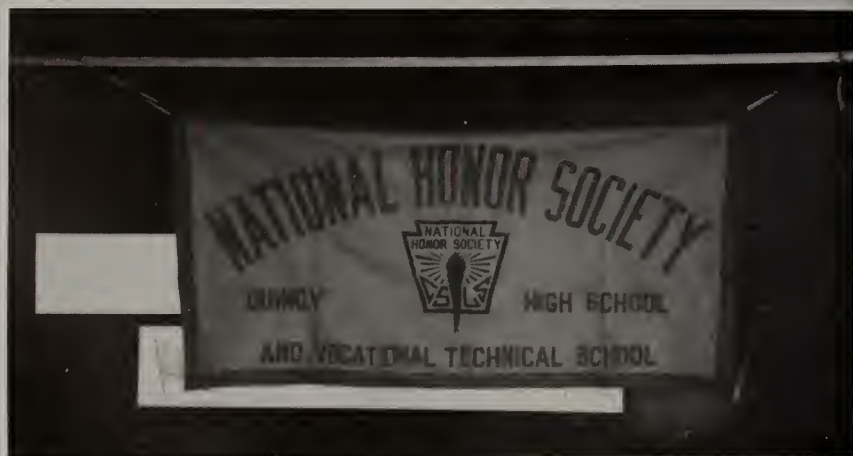

The National Honor Society is just a part of the High School community, a part which takes pride in Quincy High and the entire City of Quincy.

The Pony Rides Again

"Quality, not quantity." So said Co-Editors Deanne DeSantis and Julie Flaherty at the beginning of the year, and their edition has carried through on both halves of their promise. Although there were only 4 issues of the Pony Express, all of them, for the first time in several years, were actually worth reading. Regular features include commentaries on school and community issues written by Julie Flaherty, as well as news of sporting events and school activities. The Pony Express provided regular coverage and opinions of the people and events of QHS.

The staff consisted of Phil Daley, Marsha Godman, Sharon Goodman, Ruthie Hernandez, Dan Piccini, Chris Polito, Jennifer Richmond, Nancy Sodano, and Beth Weixler.

Many thanks to the Advisor, Mr. Paul McShane for not killing us when stories were late.

School Bigmouths (a.k.a. Loudspeakers)

"May I have your attention for the morning announcements". The National Honor Society members are the people behind the voices who make known the meetings of the various clubs, rallies, or any other interesting pieces of information. Each member is assigned to a certain day of the week. The seniors are on in the morning and the juniors are put to work in the afternoon.

Every once in a while someone gets sick and another person must stand in. Reading the announcements with a frog in your throat is not recommended! During the winter weather Julie Flaherty would often come down with a cold and either Deanne DeSantis, President, or Beth Weixler, Vice-President, would go to the aide of Ennio Eleuteri, as Julie's replacement by reading the written announcements. Ennio was determined to read the "Pledge of Allegiance" and nothing else.

On Friday afternoons, there were battles to get to do the announcements. The first person at the office would read them. Usually Jimmy Iorio beat John Porcaro to the microphone. John would have to get an earlier start if he wanted to do the honors!

Although the voices coming over the PA system may appear to be warm and friendly, the listener "misses out" on the pre-announcement lecture... "Start at 8:02. Start at 2:25. Speak louder. Speak slower". Of course, there is one exception. Marsha Goodman is usually advised to SPEAK SOFTLY! Mr. Karhu often wondered if the plaster on the ceiling was going to fall off when she screamed the announcements.

The time is now 2:30. Have a nice day.

Prom Committees

The QHS Senior Prom Committee, made up of mainly all the Junior Prom Committee members from last year, is the necessary part of a successful prom. The committee meets about 3 times a month to work on fundraisers and the prom agenda. The group worked hard last year for the Junior prom, at the Sheraton Tara, Braintree. It's theme was "Always & Forever." The committee spent the morning of April 15th hanging blue and white streamers, filling vases with carnations, and organizing last-minute details for the food and music.

The money raised this year was the result of flower sales on Valentine's Day, picture sales from photos with Santa Claus (a.k.a. Michael DeMaggio and Scott Campbell) and candy basket sales on Easter.

The Senior Prom which was held on May 26th at the Sheraton in Boston, was definitely an evening to remember, thanks to the hard work and dedication of many seniors. This year's prom theme was "With You All The Way", and all the happy memories of the prom, will be with each of us as we go on our own ways.

QHS Math Wizards

In the Continental Math League, the QHS team finished in 1st place in Massachusetts for the year. In one of these competitions this year, the QHS ninth grade team placed as high as 1st in Massachusetts, 3rd in New England, and 9th nationally with 114 schools competing. In one of the New England Math League competitions this year the QHS team placed as high as 2nd in Norfolk County, 4th in Massachusetts, and 4th in New England with 235 schools competing. The students will continue to prosper under the direction of their teachers and Mrs. Chruscziel.

Class Officers . . .

The class officers from the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes are each responsible for the individual needs of each of their classes.

For all of the classes, a major job is the planning of exciting and innovative fundraisers to raise money for the class. The purpose of this in both the Junior and Senior classes is for the Proms. If the class officers do an effective job, the cost of the prom tickets can be reduced, and the class can afford special extras like decorations and prom favors. This year the Junior Prom was held at the Lantana in Randolph, and the Senior Prom was held at the Sheraton Boston, and each prom was excellent!

The Freshman and Sophomore classes use the funds that they raise to hold a spring dance. This year was a Spring Fling for the whole school, which had Kiss 108 D.J. Vinny Peruzzi as the jockey for the evening.

The officers are also responsible for raising the spirit of their class, and helping to raise the spirit of the school by participating on some of the committees that the Student Council runs as a whole.

With the help of the officers, the student council and its events run more smoothly!

Student Council

The 1988-1989 Quincy High School Student Council has had a very exciting and productive year, especially because of their great organization and leadership.

Their first big accomplishment was when they had a very successful Blood Drive, thanks to the seniors and faculty who contributed blood. They sponsored an excellent homecoming dance after our exciting Turkey-Day win which made us City Champions! They also created a wonderful float for the Christmas Parade that won an Honorable Mention, continuing a tradition started three years ago.

Along with the help of the citywide Health Committee, the council began a Peer Counseling group which goes into the middle schools to teach the students about social issues. In addition, after having City Counselor Tim Cahill speak at one of the council's meetings, they helped support the city at the "Sludge Rally", with Q.H.S. representatives speaking out about the problem.

Within the school, the council made a bulletin board which hangs in the front lobby and contains a calendar of all sports events and school functions each month. They wrote a strong editorial praising Q.H.S.'s achievements which was printed in the Patriot Ledger and the Quincy Sun.

An important job that the student council must do is organize elections for the freshman each year and for the next year's Student Body Officers, and Student Council, Student Union, and Student Advisory Council Representatives. All of these elections were done and conducted with honesty, integrity, and enthusiasm.

Another great event sponsored by the Student Council and the newly formed International Club was the first Valentine's Day dance in recent Q.H.S. history, which was a great success. The special attraction was that the disc jockeys were Kid David Koury and Lady Di, the Real Diana Steele, both from KISS 108 FM!

This year's council members discovered some new and innovative fund raisers, such as selling blue and white "shakers", collecting cans from the teachers' room soda machine, and selling roses on Mother's Day. This money was used to present scholarships to senior student council members, as well as to provide money for next year's council. A portion of the money was also used as a contribution to the playground being built at the Daniel Webster Elementary School.

Another important thing to note about this year is that the council has had excellent Student Union and Student Advisory Council Representatives.

The council has twenty-eight elected officers and three other members who are considered class representatives because they were dedicated and interested in the council and participated in it. These three students are: Denise Carey, Senior Class Representative; Melissa Miller, Junior Class Representative; and Maureen Cully, Sophomore Class Representative. (Cont'd on Page 122)

MORE STUDENT COUNCIL

(Cont'd from Page 120) and Maureen Cully, Sophomore Class Representative. All of these three students have attended at least half of the meetings and/or have dedicated their time to helping in the various sub-committees of the Student Council.

The one person who has been the guiding light for the council this year is the Student Body President, Sharon Goodman. She is the one who has made most of our aspirations a reality. Sharon was aided by: Joe DeAngelo, Student Body Vice-President; Marsha Goodman, Student Body Secretary; and Beth Weixler, Student Body Treasurer.

The Senior Class Officers are: Michelle Cashman, President; Lauren McNamara, Vice-President; Kristy Light, Secretary; Sue Egan, Treasurer; and Sean Gannon, Sharon Goodman and Beth Weixler, Student Union Representatives.

The Junior Class Officers are Lisa Morrell, President; Arlene Amo, Vice-President, Jimmy Iorio, Secretary, Cindy Galman, Treasurer; and Christen Clarke, Marsha Goodman, Janee McMakin, and Maureen Shea, Student Union Representatives.

The Sophomore Class Officers are: Amy Chenette, President; Christine Barrett, Vice-President; Jackie Potter, Secretary, Jennifer D'Alessandro, Treasurer; and Jennifer D'Alessandro and Beth Sullivan, Student Union Representatives.

The Freshman Class Officers are: Tara Anshewitz, President; Tricia Vacca, Vice-President; Amy Galman, Secretary; Judy Goodman, Treasurer; and John Daley, Judy Goodman, Gretchen O'Hare, and Rebecca Siteman, Student Union Representatives.

Finally, Mr. Harry Carter was the Faculty Advisor. In his third year as advisor, Mr. Carter has been there at all the meetings and helped to organize the council. He kept them informed of all the leadership, and other special programs available to the members, and without his help they would not have been able to make everything happen. His excellent work was appreciated by everyone and with his help, things look great for next year!

(Above) Our enchanting forest also contained a chipmunk, reindeer, and skunk. Behind them is a lake that leads to a waterfall near the float's front.

STUDENT UNION

The Student Union of Quincy Public Schools is a joint student council of Quincy High School, North Quincy High School, and Quincy Vocational Technical School. Representatives from each of these three schools meet twice a month to address issues that affect all the secondary schools city-wide.

The major project of the Union is to have a seminar each year on an issue that is not only on the minds of the students, but is also in the public eye. This year, because of an active Union with some great representatives, we had two seminars! In the fall, there was a seminar called Teen Suicide, and in the spring there was a seminar called Teen Talk on Date Abuse. Each seminar was a big success due to excellent guest speakers, and interesting workshops for the students.

Of course, nothing would've happened without the dedication and help of the members.

This year there were thirteen members from Quincy High and two members from the Voc-Tech. The Quincy High Representatives were: (Seniors) Sean Gannon; Sharon Goodman; and Beth Weixler; (Juniors) Christen Clarke; Marsha Goodman; Janee McMaikin; and Maureen Shea; (Sophomore) Jen D'Allessandro; and Beth Sullivan; (Freshman) John Daley; Judy Goodman; Gretchen O'Hare; and Rebecca Siteman.

The Vocational-Technical Representatives were: (Seniors) Liz Fortin; and Keith Newcome.

The Presidency of the Student Union alternates every year. This year it was North Quincy's turn. The Vice-Presidency, however was held by Sharon Goodman of Quincy High, and the Treasurer was Liz Fortin of the Voc-Tech.

This year was an excellent year for the Union, and it is a great connection between the three city high schools!

STUDENT ADVISORY COUNCIL

One day each month, Sharon Goodman goes in to the State House in Boston to attend Greater Boston Student Advisory Council (GBSAC) meetings. This regional student council is made up of members from each secondary school in the Greater Boston region, each who are chosen to participate by an election at their home school.

The major purpose of the group is to provide a forum for all students to express concerns about their schools and for the group to brainstorm as a whole to help solve the problems. The council works by coming up with issues that need to be addressed and formulating a bill on the topic. Then the group would gain support for the bill by lobbying for it. Some ways in which they would lobby for a bill include writing letters to state representatives and senators, and informing their school student councils of the issues and the council's position on the issue.

Once on the GBSAC, Sharon was elected, along with eleven other GBSAC members to the State Student Advisory Council (SSAC). This is a form of student council on the state level, and the group is made of representatives from all of the regional student councils in Massachusetts. SSAC meets once a month at the Department of Education, which happens to be located in Quincy, and students from all over Massachusetts come here for the meetings.

On SSAC, each member is chosen to be on one of six Task Force groups. Sharon was a member of the Legislative Task Force. This Task Force is in charge of writing the bills whose ideas originate from individual students or from the regional student councils.

The Student Advisory Council had a successful year, producing five bills. Two of the bills were voted down in study, two of the bills status is unknown at this time, and one of the bills is looking favorable in a council of state Representatives and Senators. This shows that SAC has a real impact, and is an important part of student government.

Shiloh Goes Around the World in a Day

Cultural Awareness Week was the week of May 1 to May 5 and was a very exciting week at Quincy High. Celebrated with workshops and guest speakers who came to Social Studies classes, the most exciting part of the week was the Cultural Fair on Thursday. Many people participated, including students and faculty, and there were 15 different groups, encompassing over twenty countries.

The countries and students involved were: America: Mike Sherwood, David Childers, Robert Farrel; Cambodia: Daryl Meng, Lisa Melchionne, Irene Tse; China: Winna Mei, Mandy Chan, Ann Wong, Frank Zhou; France: Kristin Woodbury, Kathy Kane, Nancy Chevy, Dora Tsang, John Vo, Adriana Bagu, Lori Allen, John Killilea, Alison Caldwell, Ruthie Hernandez; Germany: Lawrence Chan, Wayne Deng; Greece: Jerry Stavrakopoulos, Angelo Stavrakopoulos, Yianis Kalaitzidis, John Kontorous-

sis, Jimmy Iorio; Hispanic: Melissa Miller, Lorraine Swanton; Ireland-Scotland: Beth Sullivan, Brian Swanton, Eileen Joyce; Israel: Judy Goodman, Cheri Cooper, Meredith Blake, Sharon Goodman; Italy: Maureen Henwood, Charity Vecchionne, Anson Cheng, Peter Lespasio, Jeff Bina, Joanne Mariano, Debbie Marinelli, Jennifer Pettinelli, Franca DeVito, Julie DeStefano, Mark Volpe; Japan: Dorothy Leung, Jacqueline Leung, Rebecca Leong, Rita Lei; Lebanon: Rima Zeidon, Yong Fang, Ky Ngu; Poland: Dorota Brodzik; Scandinavia: Marsha Goodman, Alina Mak; and Vietnam: Dung Diep, Chi Tran, Peng Wu, Wendy Ou.

The fair couldn't have happened without the help of faculty, too. Mr. Lou Ionilli, the Coordinator, and Mrs. Helen Flaherty, provided a great deal of help. There were also numerous other teachers who participated. This year's Cultural Fair was a great success and with the enthusiasm of this year the fair will continue!

The Copy Editor's Page

First of all, Julie, notice that the poem about the 2 roads & how I took the one less travelled on is not here.* Second, I would like to thank Dave Chu, Jason MacKay, Jessica Rutan, Irene Tse, Michelle Cashman, Sue Egan, Ginny Fisher, the yearbook staff, the Pony Express, any faculty member, & anyone else I missed, who submitted stories into the yearbook. It made my job easier. Thanks again.* Now that that is over with, I can thank my friends for all the good times we have had together, even the bad ones, which were only when we were working on the yearbook. Well, it (the yearbook) is over but not our friendship. You know the rest. Blah, blah, blah. Never forget: lean forward, R.E.M. & Violent Femmes concert, Bahama Mama & Goom-bay & you eat it.

First row of pictures (left): Who is this boy, who always slept over his Grammy's house on Friday nights? None other than John Porcaro.

2nd row (rt): During one of our yearbook meetings, Deanne DeSantis & Beth Weixler decided to take it easy. A rest is what the yearbook staff really needs.

P.S. Sharon: Syracuse isn't too far away. We will still keep in touch & see each other, right? I thought so. Deanne: Tufts is in Medford. I'll hop on the bus Gus & I'll see you there. And as for you Julie: See you in the dorm room at B.U. for the next few years.

1st row (rt): This may appear to be a group of people going to a funeral, but it's not. It's our limo group: Rob Rosenthal, Julie Flaherty, Neil Borden, Beth Weixler & John Porcaro.

3rd (rt): Visiting QHS is Jesus Christ, Scott Kradofer, & gypsy Julie Flaherty. And no, this is not blasphemous.

Reflections from the Business Editor

I was very pleased when I was told that as an editor, I would get to write some reflections on the production of the yearbook, but I didn't know where to begin. I could start by telling you about the job of a Yearbook Business Editor. In July '88 I attended Jostens' Yearbook Camp with Julie Flaherty, Beth Weixler, Glen Sheriff and Pat McCarron. The camp was held at Bryant College in Rhode Island. I came back to Quincy after 3 days of massive "yearbooking" and immediately started to use the skills I had learned. I got a staff together and SELL, SELL, SELL was our motto. Selling ads to companies and stores in the community is a large part of the financing of the yearbook. Selling yearbooks was the next big job. Everyone, on the staff got into the act of selling yearbooks by visiting homerooms, and collecting money at A & B lunches. It seemed like we were collecting yearbook money forever, (we were).

I'm very thankful for the opportunities that working on the yearbook have given me. For example my best friends and I are constantly at each others throats, my grades this year have suffered, and I have been afflicted with insomnia (yes, I am being sarcastic). But seriously folks . . . I want to thank Beth, Julie, and Deanne, I'll miss you next year at Syracuse. Thanks to the yearbook staff for all of your free time, Saturdays, vacations, and schooldays until 6 and later, and thanks to the custodians for always letting us stay late to finish our work. Finally Mr. Whitehouse, we made it through the first year don't quit now. I'll cherish the friends I've made, and the memories I've collected forever. Bye Q.H.S.

The Girls Win, too! 28 - 6!

After many hard weeks of practice, the Quincy High Girls Powder Puff Football team gave North exactly what they deserve. The girls crushed North 28-7, leaving North disoriented and quite upset. North Quincy couldn't face the fact that Quincy is the dominant figure in sports.

On offense, points were scored thanks to a run by Cindy Martell, putting Quincy ahead 7-0. Then Beth Weixler scored a long run to make Quincy 14-0. Interceptions and fumbles plagued North, frustrating any attempt at scoring. Then a great pass play from Quarterback Michelle Thackeray to Cindy Martell made Quincy 21-0. The offensive line, made up of Kelli Ryan, Tanya Innello, Deanne DeSantis, Kristy Light, and Lori O'Rourke provided great blocking for the plays. Other offense was sparked by Roberta DiTullio, Lisa O'Brien, Laurie Currie, Lisa Triandafilos, and Kim Holt. North scored only because the refs, (North and Quincy High boys), felt that North had tried hard enough to deserve the points even though they were a few yards short. Karen Boussy then had the last score, running the ball in making the score 28-7.

Defense had an outstanding day letting up only one touchdown, which Michelle Cashman made the tackle on. Other stars were Kim Zupkofska, Caitlin Shiels, Shiloh Thompson, Dawn Hartnett, Maura Golden, Jenn Horrigan, Katie O'Brien, Jackie Carlson, Sandi Wysocki, and Sonya Gruchy. Michelle Tardieu, Brenda Murphy, and Jen LaPlume played when they were needed. The defensive line penetrated well, making North block hard, sometimes unfairly and illegally which caused many unnecessary fights. The defense also allowed for a no passing game, intercepting North's only pass. Strong tackles made North fumble, and allowed Quincy again to get the ball, and turn it into a touchdown.

The girls give many thanks to all who came to cheer them on, even on a cold and rainy day. Coaches Scott Grant, Dave Nourse, Chris Noble, Brian Norris Bob Austin, Scott O'Brien, Todd Kimmell, and Dan Hanly were there to help the girls through tough plays and the girls thank all of the others who helped out. ensure victories.

Above: Rejoicing after the win. We proved we were better, faster, and stronger.

Right: We couldn't have done it without each other. TEAMWORK!

Well guys, I guess this is it. You all may be wondering why I, Deanne DeSantis, have the privilege of my own page. Since I did every layout in the book, I feel that I should get this last request.

I'd like to thank a lot of people. Irene, Darlene, Jason, Dave, Alina, Marsha, and Lisa should be thanked for the help they gave me. It's a long road, but we got there. The yearbook has taught me a lot about life. You won't get much help, a lot of things are delayed, and it takes a lot of love and support to get through it.

My friends pulled me through the year. Beth, Pett, Julie, Sharon, Stacey, Jenn, Chris, Brian, Dan . . . there's just so many people I love and care about who make me who I am. I hope you guys don't forget me.

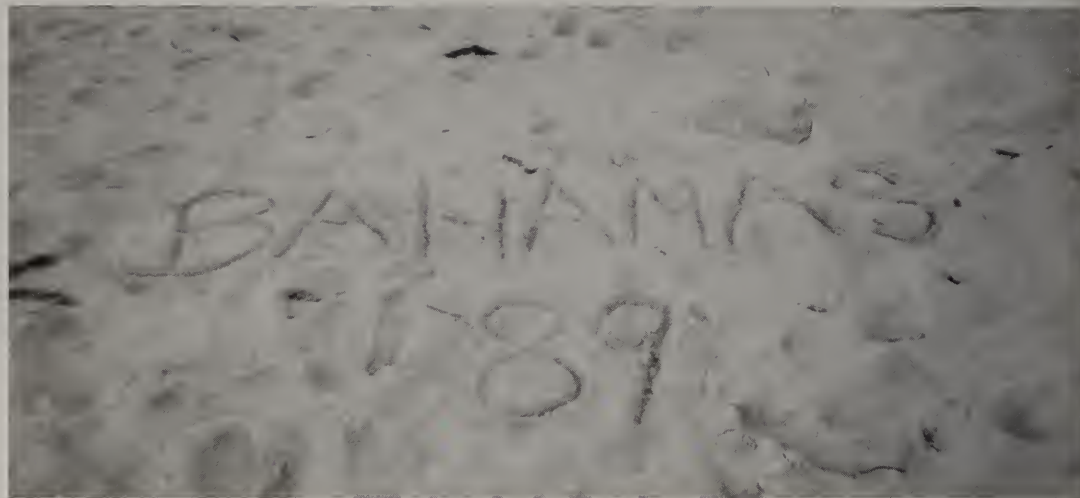

My teachers will never be forgotten; Mr. Mac, Mr. Karhu, Mr. A, Mrs. Day, Mr. H, Mr. McD, Mr. W, Mrs. B + C, Mr. J, Mrs. Trib, Mr. R, Mr. S, and Mr. McS. Quincy has given me a good background to bring to Tufts.

To all those who are mad the yearbook is so late, I can say only so much work can be completed by four people. Que sera, sera.

Thanks again, QHS!!

Class Will

We the Class of 1989, daring anyone to question our soundness of mind, do bequeath the following items to the school we leave behind:

To Mr. Albanese, we leave the promise that he will never have to deal with Glen Sherriff again.

To Mrs. Basiliere, we leave a ten mile roll of the plastic stuff on the overhead projector, and a package of designer felt tip pens.

To Mr. Bartolotti, we leave a non-temperamental cast, if such exists.

To Mr. Carter, we leave the reminder that only real men can wear pink (especially with plaid).

To Mrs. Chrusciel, we leave a class full of Benvics. No offense Benvic; you're cool.

To Mr. Coviello, we leave a fruit basket, heavy on the bananas, and a bounty of bell players.

To Ms. Dalton, a semi-automatic weapon, to accent her assertive personality.

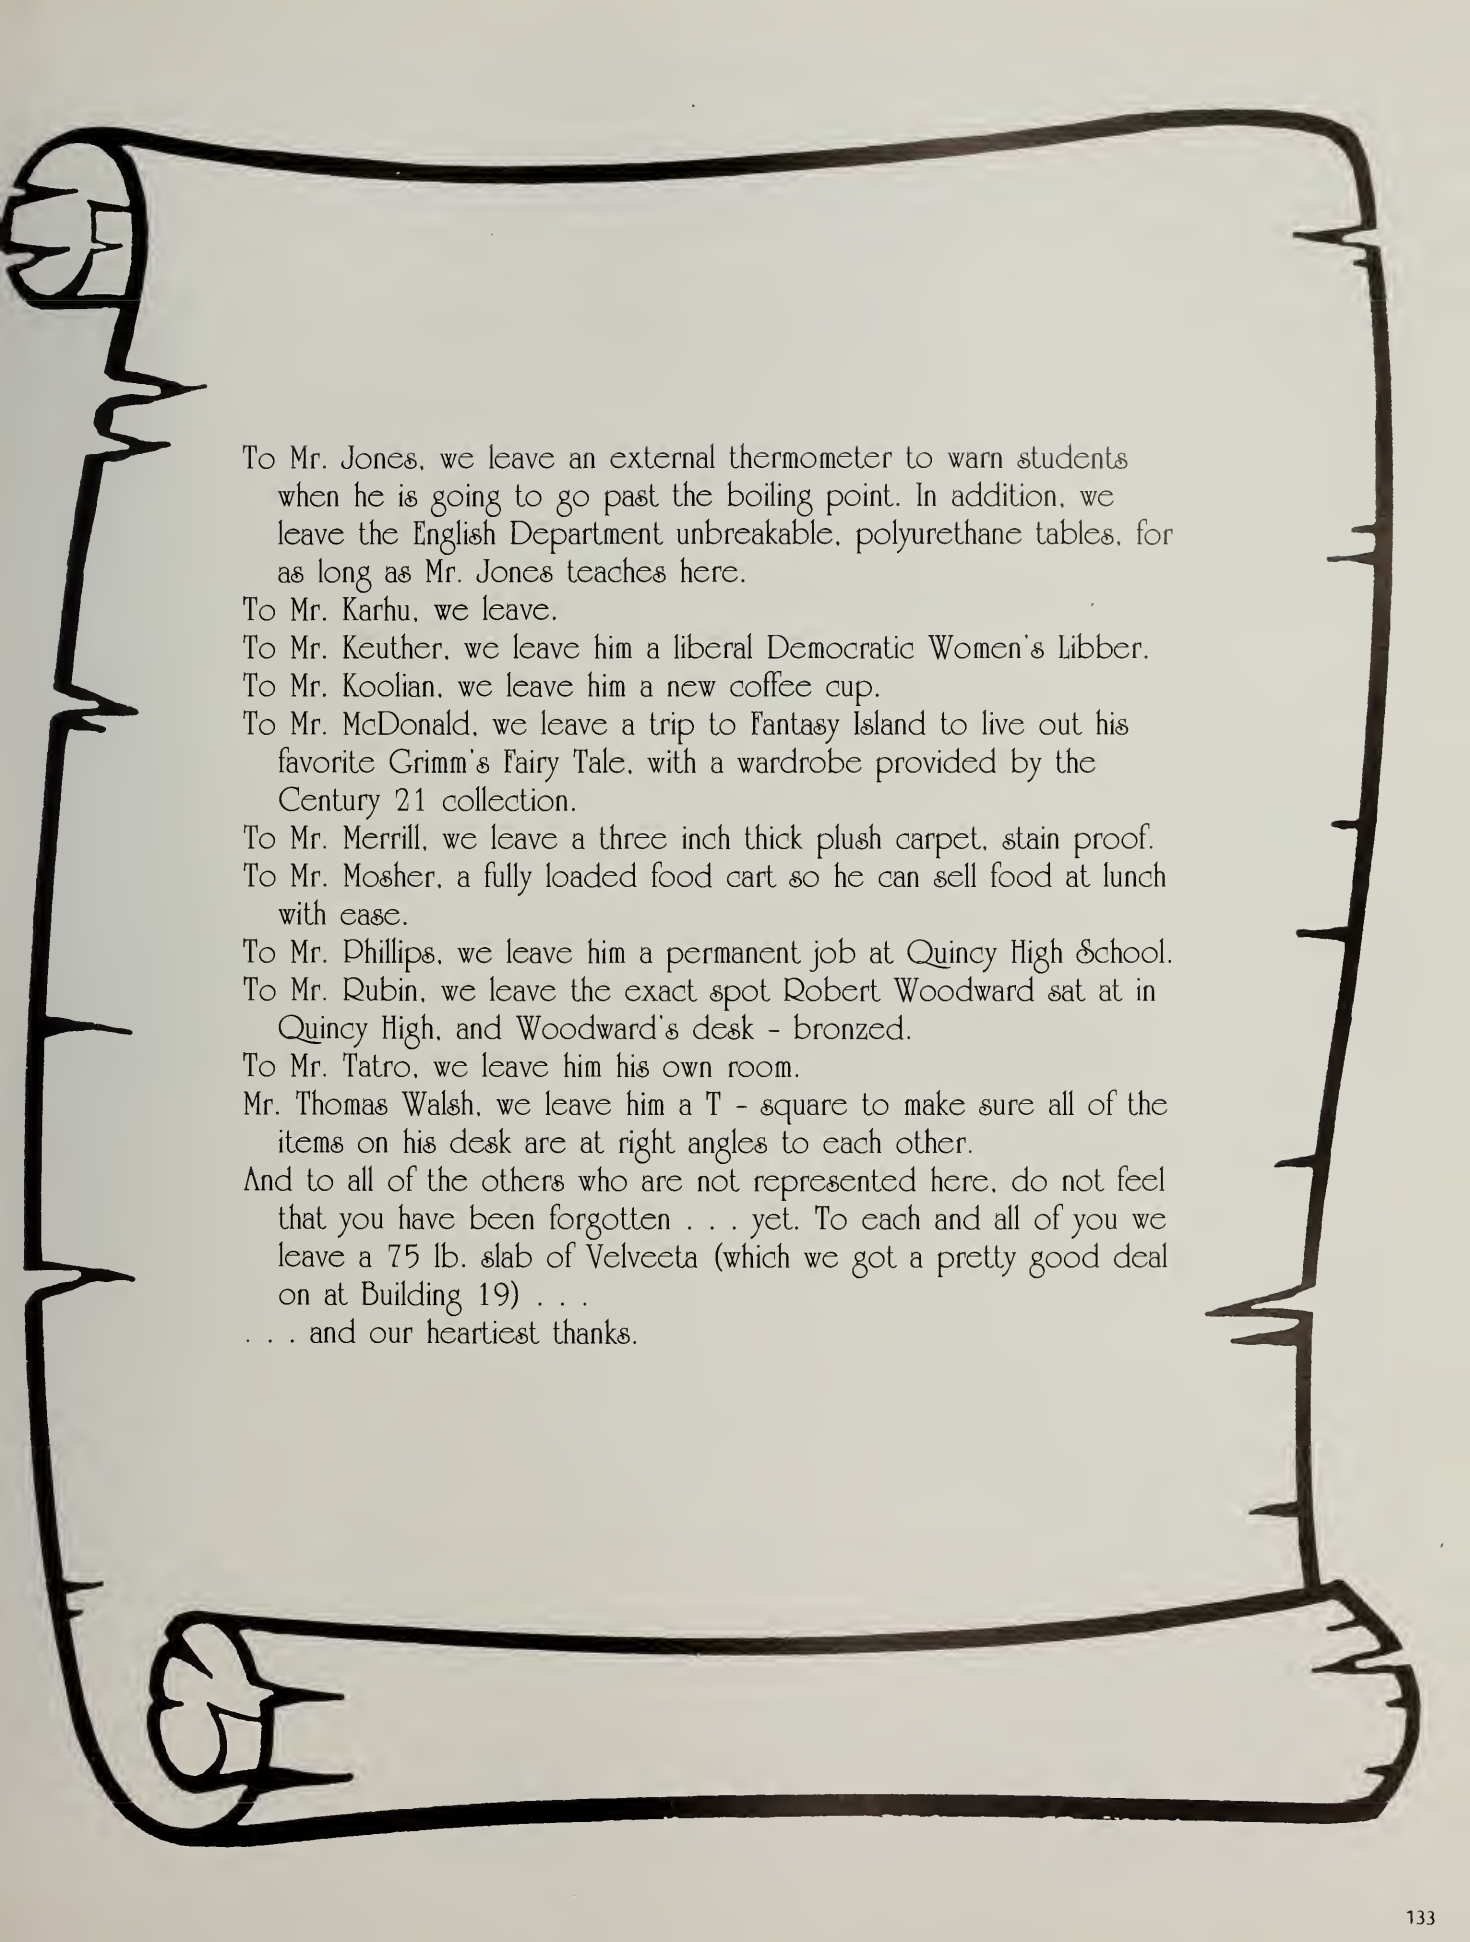

To Mrs. DeCristofaro, we leave enough carnations to keep her busy on Valentine's Day, Groundhog Day, May Day, Blue and White Day, the Vernal Equinox. . . .

To Mrs. Maureen Flaherty, we leave a very, very long vacation, some place warm and tropical.

To Mr. Cliniewicz, we leave our eternal hatred and loathing—you sloth dog.

To Mr. Harrington, we leave a copy of the "Color Me Beautiful" guide to personalizing your wardrobe. We think his ruddy complexion makes him a definite "autumn".

To Mrs. Innis, we leave the hope that we all have her as our mother in a future life. She is the only high school teacher we know that still draws smiley faces.

To Mr. Jones, we leave an external thermometer to warn students when he is going to go past the boiling point. In addition, we leave the English Department unbreakable, polyurethane tables, for as long as Mr. Jones teaches here.

To Mr. Karhu, we leave.

To Mr. Keuther, we leave him a liberal Democratic Women's Libber.

To Mr. Koolian, we leave him a new coffee cup.

To Mr. McDonald, we leave a trip to Fantasy Island to live out his favorite Grimm's Fairy Tale, with a wardrobe provided by the Century 21 collection.

To Mr. Merrill, we leave a three inch thick plush carpet, stain proof.

To Mr. Mosher, a fully loaded food cart so he can sell food at lunch with ease.

To Mr. Phillips, we leave him a permanent job at Quincy High School.

To Mr. Rubin, we leave the exact spot Robert Woodward sat at in Quincy High, and Woodward's desk - bronzed.

To Mr. Tatro, we leave him his own room.

Mr. Thomas Walsh, we leave him a T - square to make sure all of the items on his desk are at right angles to each other.

And to all of the others who are not represented here, do not feel that you have been forgotten . . . yet. To each and all of you we leave a 75 lb. slab of Velveeta (which we got a pretty good deal on at Building 19) . . .

. . . and our heartiest thanks.

CLASS FAVORITES QUIZ

We at the yearbook office realized that, because the Class of 1989 is a reflection of so many diverse tastes, cultures, and interests, giving only one answer for each category would not and could not accurately represent the Quincy mentality. ERIC JUDSON 283 West St.

Eric may be wondering why his picture is not in its correct and alphabetical position in the senior pages. Well, this is because Eric has been chosen as the first ever recipient of the Editors' Choice Award. This prestigious award, new to QHS this year, is our way of recognizing excellence in our school. Unfortunately, the yearbook staff had considerable difficulty trying to find an acceptable set of criteria for the award. There was a hostile debate over whether it should be based on Academic Merit, Athletic Abilities, or Achievement in the Fine Arts. Therefore, Eric has been chosen simply for his unadulterated coolness.*

RYAN H. HERSEY
22 Carlmark St.

Some of you may already have heard, via the Grapevine, that Mr. Hersey's picture found its way into the North Quincy Yearbook. This just goes to show how desperately N.Q. wants to be like Quincy.

However, due to a tremendous Commando raid by the Q.H.S.Y.A.F.*, Ryan's picture was recovered, along with some very interesting photos of the North Quincy Yearbook Staff engaging in some strange rituals with bonfires and a pair of green high-top Converse sneakers. (By the way, if the "other" yearbook staff is interested in recovering these photos, we may be willing to negotiate . . . for a price.)

Our sincerest apologies to Ryan, and we hope we have not offended anyone.

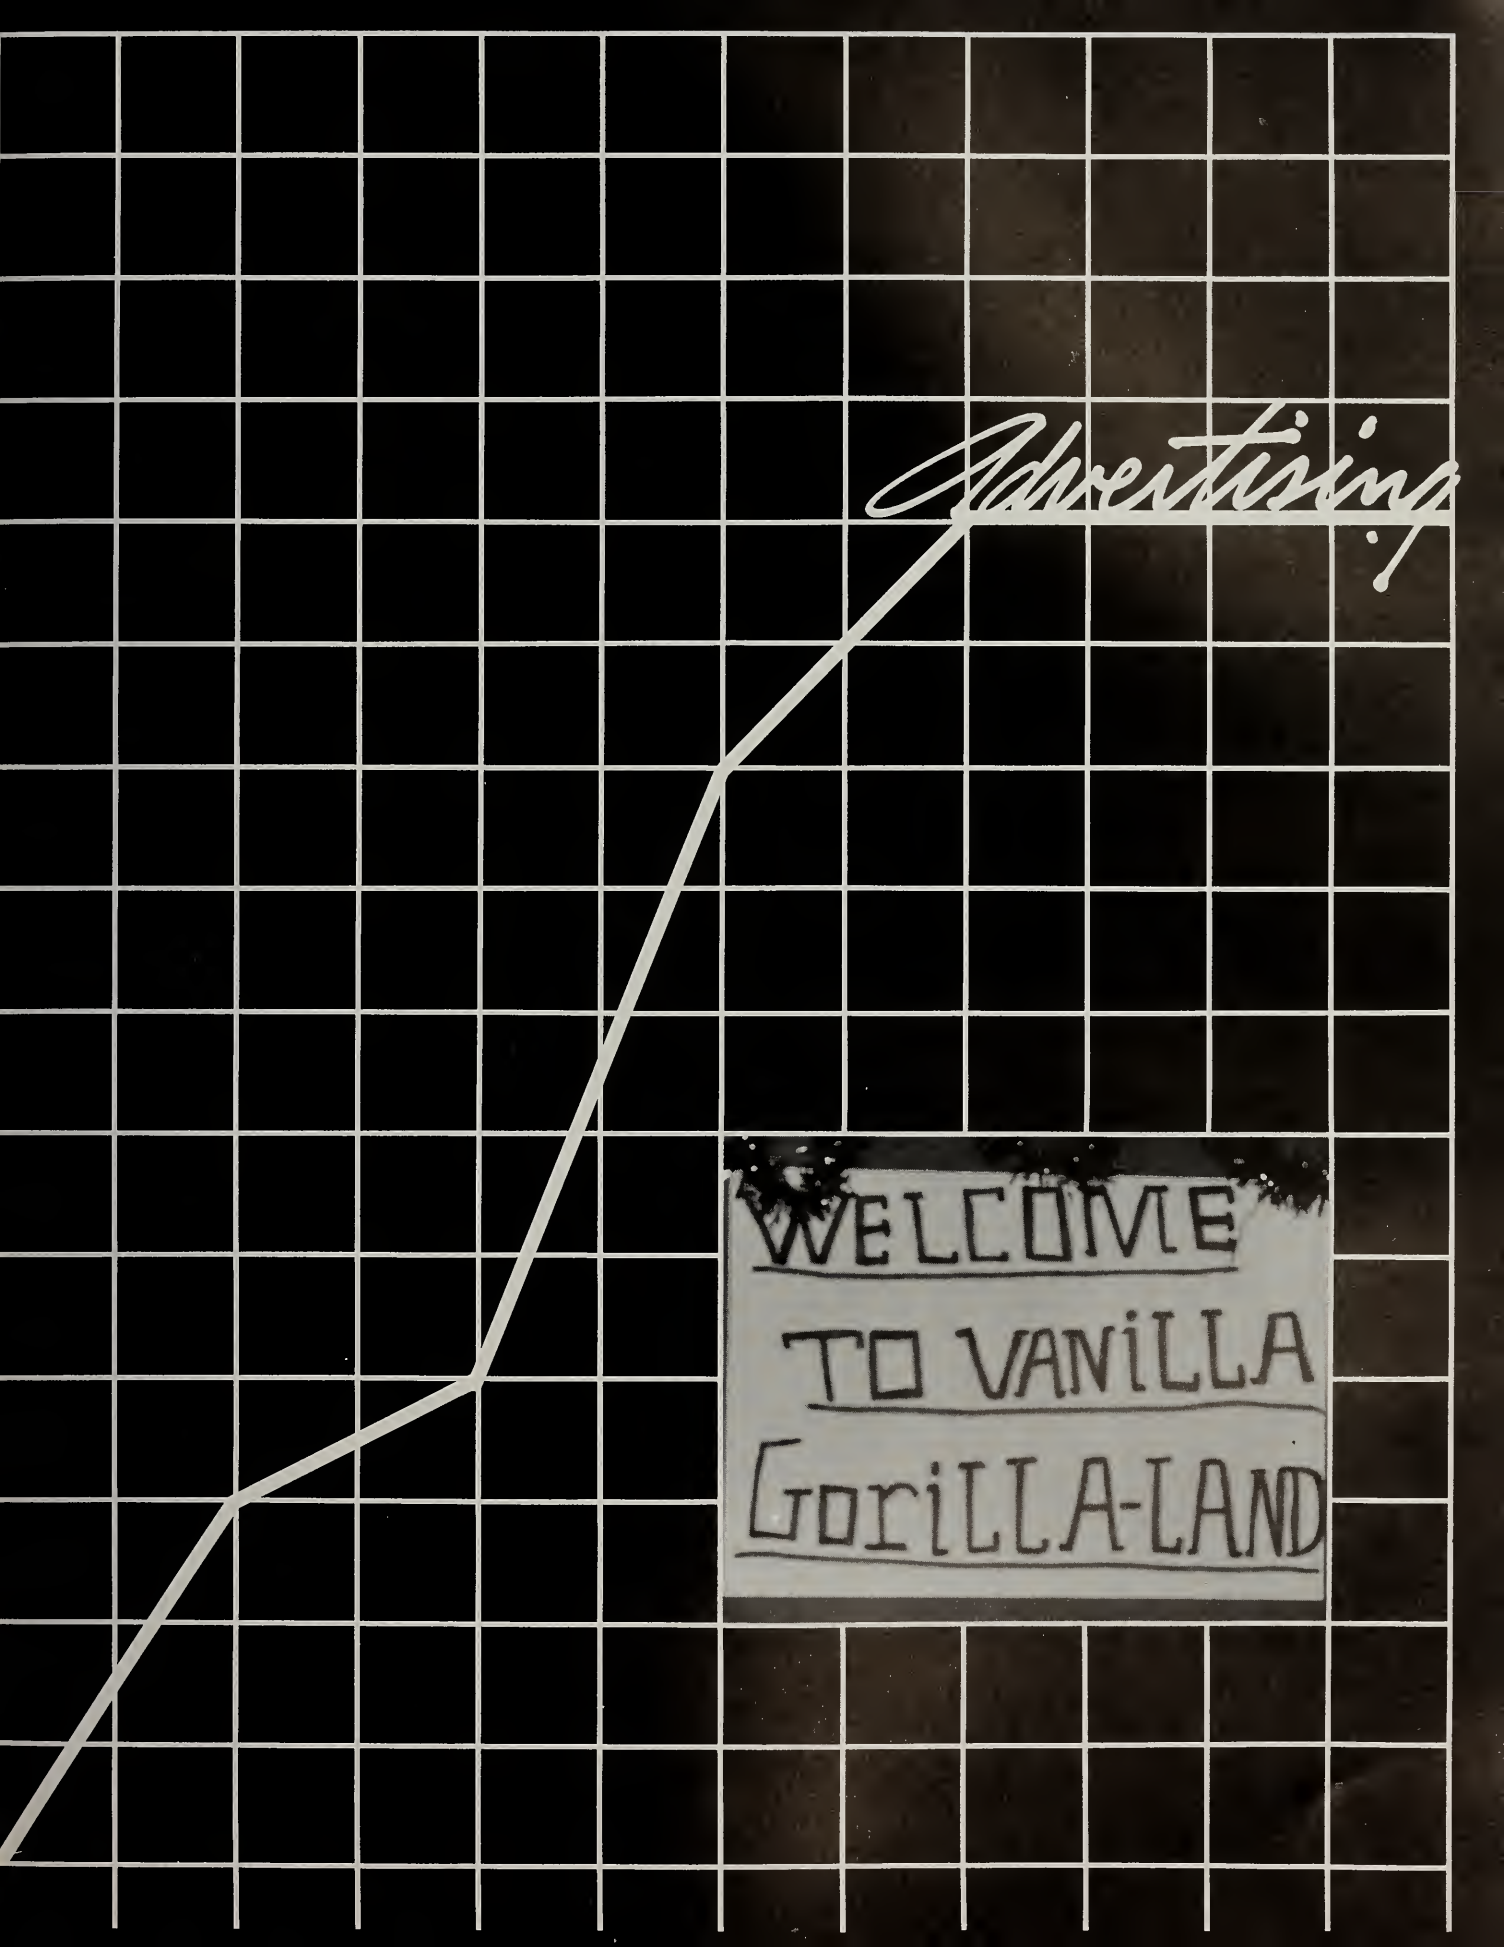

*Quincy High School Yearbook Armed Forces.

. . . We Just Work Here.

*This has absolutely nothing to do with the fact that Eric's picture was lost sometime during the first deadline and was not unearthed until sometime after Christmas when a major clean-up and recovery project found it stuck to the bottom of a Papa Gino's box (Pepperoni and anchovy). Eric is a pretty cool guy though, anyway.

Dedication 1989

As the hot grip of summer came upon this year's dwindling yearbook staff, we became delirious and struggled to find an appropriate dedication. We could not decide on a single person, so we are incorporating many people who have helped us through our trial and tribulations of high school.

Of course we must mention Mr. Hill. He has pushed us through Quincy with the gentle guidance needed from a principal.

Mr. Basiliere left us at the beginning of the year, yet came back as a surprise guest at our Senior Awards Assembly. We'll miss you, as a friend and a disciplinarian.

Our Dean, Mr. Yezukevich, has put up with us through good times and bad. It is time for him to take another ninth grade and bring them to maturity.

We lost (or so we thought) Mr. DeSabitino last year. He came back in full splendor to teach an accelerated Physics course. We couldn't have done it without him.

Many of you do not know Dave Belland. He was our first Jostens' Yearbook representative. He helped us struggle through and get done our first deadline. He then left us, and nothing got done.

Bravely (and some say foolishly) Mr. Ray Whitehouse took the job of yearbook advisor. We could not figure out at the beginning of this year why no one would take the job. Then we found out what yearbooking is REALLY all about.

Our Editor-in-chief, Julie Flaherty, is also one of our best friends. She hates having her picture taken, so the one on these pages is the best one we could find. She hates being flattered, but we think she deserves it. We can get away with saying these things because she is not here today. Good job Julie!*

However, the real dedication of this book can only be to you, the Class of 1989. You deserve all of the best, and congratulations!

* Ah-ha! So you thought you could fool me, did you? Well, this is just to let you know that I see and hear EVERYTHING that goes on in this book. Well, usually. I was going to try to edit that paragraph about me out of this page, but I couldn't get this damn computer to let me into that copy block—what did you guys do, put a code on it? Anyway, I suppose I am obliged to reciprocate the compliment, so I will just say that no matter what anyone thinks of this book (please let them like it!) you guys are the gosh darn best staff this side of the Equator, and you deserve all the thanks I can offer. Thank you!

1989 YEARBOOK COLOPHON

Volume 56 of the Quincy High and the Quincy Vocational Technical High Schools yearbook, The Goldenrod, was published by the staff. The Jostens Printing and Publishing of State College, Pennsylvania, printed the book. There were 224 pages printed on 80 # matte paper.

The cover was designed by Mr. Charles Gliniewicz and is blue #514 with white #325 silk-screening. The Presidents' hat was embossed using gold foil #591. The end sheets were light blue #290 with white grid lines. The trim size was 8 1/2 X 11. The body copy was printed in 9 pt. Benguiat Book type. The headlines were 36 pt. University type. All copy was typed using the Auto Copy program provided by Jostens. May we never have to use it again as long as we live, Amen.

Senior portraits were taken by McGrath Studios, in addition to many of the sports pictures. All other photos were taken by Glen Sherriff and various members of the staff.

The yearbook staff consisted of Deanne DeSantis, Layout Editor, Julie Flaherty, Editor in Chief, Sharon Goodman, Business Editor, Dan Piccini, Computer Dude, Glen Sherriff, Photography Editor, and Beth Weixler, Copy Editor. Marsha Goodman helped with writing several stories and designing several layouts. Other writers included Dave Chu, Jason MacKay, Irene Tse, Sue Egan, Maura Golden, Michelle Cashman, Jessica Rutan, Melanie McPhee, Roberta DiTullio, Sarah Joyce, Liz Vo, Ruthie Hernandez, The Pony Express Staff, various faculty members, and anyone else we could get our hands on. Ms. Pierce's 3rd and 5th period classes typed in most of the senior messages. Corrinne Fichtner, Sue Egan, and Jim Iorio pitched in with the typing, too.

We would like to thank several people who helped us immeasurably. Mr. Karhu, who we will always be indebted to, generously allowed us the necessary use of his computer room (actually we just barged in and took over). Mr. Carter was always there with his key to room 236 and almost always with a smile. He was one of the few faculty members to learn the sacred rituals of the Goldenrod, i.e. leave that light alone! Our thanks goes out to Ms. Pierce for letting us "borrow" her computer paper, and her class, and her printers, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Piccini will probably never forget the night of the first deadline when they found half a dozen yearbookers had taken over their dining room. Rodney Spear allowed us to borrow his computer on that fateful deadline, and saved us all from having a collective nervous breakdown.

Mr. Phillips and Mrs. Whitehouse proof read the copy, when there was any.

Mr. Hill was always willing to pull strings to let us into the school building on those dreadful Saturday mornings, and we thank him sincerely. Thanks also to custodians who let us sneak around the building long past twilight.

Lastly, we would like to thank our two advisors. Although Mr. Gliniewicz left us over the summer, the help he gave us was to carry us through those early months when we were advisorless. We cannot say enough about Mr. Whitehouse, and he probably doesn't want us to.

Editor's note:

This is the place where I am supposed to write my little message to the class and say all of my thank you's to those who helped and congratulate the staff. But I've already done that, I think. I hope that the theme of the yearbook . . . or what was once the theme . . . oh, all right, the words on the cover . . . I hope that it has been somewhat true in your stay here at Quincy, and I hope that this book will hope you remember it.

Since my creative juices have run completely dry, and since the staff are probably the only ones reading this paragraph anyway, I will say a few more thank you's. First of all, thanks for putting up with probably the laziest, slowest, most annoying procrastinator of an editor ever to hit a yearbook—who by the way can't spell or type either—namely, me. Thank you Sharon, for helping keep me half way organized. Thank you Glen for being half way responsible. Thank you Deanne for complaining almost as much as I did but with the distinct difference of actually getting the work done. Thank you Beth for being there earlier than anyone on those mornings after school got out. Thank you Dan for going near the computer when no one else dared. Thank you Marsha for doing all of those damn Student Council pages. Thank you Rob for keeping me sane. Thank you God for letting this book be finished, finally.

I FORGOT
MY KEYS... AGAIN.

I'M GOING TO KILL GLEN!

Q: "WHEN ARE WE GETTING THE YEARBOOK?" A: WHEN CROP LAYOUT TO REALITY. WE FEEL LIKE IT!

DEADLINES,
DEADLINES,

THE DEADLINES.

PICA POWER!

LET'S GET A PASS
FROM MR. KARHU.

DAVE, BOB, MRC, JANET, RAY
SANTO $170 FOR WHAT?
"LOL"

THE GOLDENROD S.G.D.B.D.C. 5

WHAT DO YOU MEAN; WE
WE PROVED ANARCHY CAN WORK.

DON'T GET PAID FOR THIS!?

BUT THAT'S NOT MY JOB!

CLIP ART
TO THE RESCUE!
WHO STOLE THE CONDOM?

ROOM Q4 - DO YOU THINK WE CAN FIT A COUCH IN HERE?

CLOSING

Now that all of the graduation parties are over and most of the graduation gift money from distant relatives has been spent on trivial, transient frivolities, we begin to look ahead to our futures and how we will shape our lives in the real world... no, wait. On second thought, never mind. Forget I ever said that. Just party as long as you can and as hard as you can and hang out at the beach all day and play skee-ball. After all, you've definitely earned it. So enjoy your summer, enjoy your lives, and try to keep out of too much trouble.
